2 PLEASURE DRIVING BAN EASED BY OPA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Easterners may stop for a social call or any other purpose if it's on their home-to-work driving route without violating the ban on "pleasure driving," officials of the Office of Price Administration said today.

NEW GUINEA—Allied troops push Japs further back toward Sanananda Point and Allied planes blast and machinegun a trail south of Salamaua, destroying a bridge.

RUSSIA—Red Army troops were preparing for the siege of Salsk today after recapturing more Caucasian points. The Nazis threw tanks and planes into a stiffening stand.

YANKS RAID LIBYA, RIP 34 NAZI PLANES

By WES GALLAGHER

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 13 (AP)—United States warplanes destroyed 34 Nazi aircraft in the air and on the ground in a raid yesterday on Castel Benito airfield, 10 miles south of Tripoli, it was announced today.

B-17 Flying Fortresses which led the attack into Tripolitania from the west knocked out 20 planes on the ground and downed 14 more during a blazing 75-mile running battle high in the air, a spokesman said.

This was the deepest reported penetration into Libya by Fortresses based in the west.

RAF's Blisleys attacked the Nazi supply line along the Tunisian east coast near Sousse, ranging over the highways by moonlight and blasting trucks and transports with bombs and machine-gun fire.

A Cairo communique said today that Tripoli and Homs, 65 miles farther east, were attacked Monday night and that other planes followed up yesterday with raids on Axis air bases in Sicily, Crete and Lampedusa island.

Almost at the same time the American Lightnings struck across the Tunisian border into Tripolitania in other attacks.

Sweeping close to the ground above a long line of Axis transport vehicles, some of them crowded with troops, the cannon and heavy machine guns of the swift fighters left a trail of smoke and destruction.

An Air Force spokesman estimated that 50 trucks were destroyed, including five filled with troops.

On the way back the Lightnings shot up a seaplane near Gabes and battled with Messerschmitt 108's which tried to intercept them.

B-26 Martin Marauders topped off the aerial show by scoring a hit on two bridges, one on a highway and the other on a road between Sousse and Stax.

News of war on other fronts—Page 10

They explained they were interested only in saving gasoline in the 17-state shortage area, and did not intend otherwise to interfere with personal activities.

Besides driving to and from work, other authorized driving—on the route of which other stops may be made if desired—include:

To church services, weddings, funerals, essential shopping, nearby restaurants (to eat, but not for entertainment purposes), meetings of Red Cross or civilian defense or other public welfare organizations, to the doctor or hospital for medical attention, to the drug store for medical supplies, to inspect an apartment or house which the driver really hopes to rent or buy, to make other trips necessary to protect valuable property.

In addition, servicemen on furlough may make social calls by automobile.

Although the rules haven't been set rigidly, it was understood less important stops on the route of one of these permitted trips don't have to be precisely on the same streets, but can be "reasonably" close.

Rickenbacker Film Planned

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—Negotiations are under way here for a motion picture production based on the life story of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker. It was disclosed today by Christy Walsh, the flier's authorized representative.

Walsh said that although no contract or commitment has been made for the screen dramatization of the career of the World War I ace and hero of the recent rescue of a flying group forced down in the South Pacific are under consideration.

CURLEY PLAN ON OIL WEIGHED

In another effort to work out some concise plan which will end fuel oil shortages in this region, New England members of Congress met in Washington today to study a proposal for a concrete pipe line suggested by Cong. James M. Curley.

As senior member of Congress from New England, Sen. David I. Walsh called the meeting, held in his office.

Chairman of the Senate naval affairs committee, Sen. Walsh brought out that the fuel scarcity harassing householders and businessmen here is likewise vexing naval authorities. This only makes the need of improved transportation facilities all the more urgent, he said.

Sen. Maloney (D.) of Connecticut, chairman of a special Senate committee investigating petroleum rationing, appeared briefly to describe the work of his group. His committee resumed hearings today after taking testimony from Mayor Tobin and Mayor LaGuardia of New York.

While these efforts were being made in the nation's capital to solve the oil problem, Gov. Saltonstall invited the other New England chief executives to meet with him tomorrow in a discussion of the situation with Ralph K. Davies, right-hand man of Oil Czar Ickes.

Davies will make a personal investigation of all phases of this region's oil problem, especially the critical shortage of heavy-type bunker oil.

CHARLES E. BEDAUX AND HIS WIFE, FERN
Friend of Windsors Accused of Trading With Enemy

Windsor's Friend Seized as Foe Aid

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (INS)—Charles E. Bedaux, one-time friend of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor and internationally known originator of the "speed-up" system for industrial workers, it was learned today, has been arrested in French North Africa on charges of trading with the enemy.

Bedaux's exact whereabouts is being kept secret for the time being. If convicted in a civil court of trading with the enemy, he is liable to 10 years imprisonment, a $10,000 fine and forfeiture of all property used in the offense.

Mystery surrounds the circumstances under which he arrived in French North Africa. He and his wife, the former Fern Lombard, of Grand Rapids, Mich., were arrested by the Germans in Paris only last September in the general round-up of Americans there. Up until today nothing had been heard of him publicly, especially as to why he was released by the Germans, and how he managed to reach North Africa.

Arrest of Bedaux on the grave charge of trading with the enemy climaxes an amazing career which began reputedly as a bottle-filler in a New York saloon after the turn of the century and eventually developed into a millionaire international expert on how to get more work out of industrial laborers.

He became known to the world at large in June, 1937, when ex-King Edward VIII of Great Britain married Wallis Simpson in his luxurious French chateau near Tours. Several months later he gained further notoriety when he assumed charge of arrangements for a visit which the Windsors contemplated making to the United States.

REDS PUSH FORWARD FOR SIEGE OF SALS

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Germans threw tanks and warplanes into a stiffening stand in the Caucasus today in a desperate attempt to cover their forces holding the Maikop oilfields and the Black sea coast farther west, but the Russians reported further gains and more villages recaptured.

Red Star, mouthpiece of the Russian army, said the battle was becoming more violent, particularly along the rail line toward Rostov from recaptured Mineralnye Vody.

Battlefront dispatches said the Russians were maintaining their pressure along a whole 100-mile front from deep in the Caucasus to the lower Kalmyck steppe, while other forces just to the north bore down on the Nazi Sal river line in preparation for the siege in Salsk, another milestone on the road to Rostov.

Strong German counterattacks were reported on the lower Don front as well as in the Caucasus.

The Don offensive was hampered by the cold wind which howled across the snow-piled steppes. The progress here was slower than in parts of the Caucasus, but the Russians were reported pressing ahead at a steady enough pace to prevent the enemy from regrouping shattered divisions.

In the close-quarter fighting in Stalingrad, the Red army made an important gain by thrusting forward from a northern factory district to the western outskirts of the city.

State, City Break Looms Over Pool Gang Roundup

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, JAN. 13, 1943

"DOC JASPER" JAILED

HELD AS RACKET HEAD—Arrested with 22 other persons in raids carried out by State Police, Dr. Harry J. Sagansky, 46-year-old dentist, today was held in $25,000 bail. Described as the ringleader of a huge syndicate, Sagansky was seized with two others, one a woman, in a raid on a Brookline apartment house.

An open break between Boston and State Police was seen today as a result of last night's raids by state troopers and federal agents which smashed a $90,000,000 number pool and horse race syndicate. As another aftermath of the raids, observers thought they saw also a break between Gov. Saltonstall, who at first was quoted as having had no knowledge of the roundup preparations, and Atty.-Gen. Bushnell, who investigated the five-months preliminary investigation.

Twelve raids were made simultaneously by flying squadrons of troopers and federal men, with one of them on the alleged headquarters of the syndicate in the city-owned Roughan Hall, Charlestown.

A few hours after the raids, the startling charge was made by Bushnell's office that "certain public officials" combined with the gambling element and night life and entertainment promoters in operating the syndicate which assertedly has defrauded the federal government out of $1,500,000 in income taxes.

Search of Dr. Sagansky's home in Gardner rd., Brookline, disclosed an insurance policy on the life of one of the most prominent figures in Massachusetts public life and the beneficiary, according to police, was Dr. Sagansky, identified as the brains of the $90,000,000 syndicate.

Another important discovery was a note to a high Boston city government official.

Both these documents are in Bushnell's possession, it was learned.

23 ARRESTED

In the sweeps on quarters of the ring, the raiders arrested 20 men and three women, including Dr. Harry J. Sagansky, better known as "Doc Jasper," one of the Club Mayfair operators, reputedly of tremendous wealth and the alleged "brains" of the organization.

Successful as the raids were, however, there were hints today that a leak, somewhere along the line blocked what would have been the biggest roundup of its kind in the East.

"BIG SHOT" SNARED

Except for Sagansky, none of those arrested was what officials regard as a large operator or a "big shot," but the fact that headquarters of the gang was in a city-owned structure was viewed as significant.

Roughan Hall was taken over by the city of Boston Sept. 21, 1939, and last Oct. 1 the property was leased to James J. (Owne) O'Neill, owner of a tavern in Chelsea st., Charlestown, and a supporter of Mayor Tobin in his campaigns.

Within a few hours after the Lena Goldblatt, blonde hostess of the Mayfair night club, was pictured today after she was seized with "Doc Jasper" Sagansky by State Police in her apartment at 12 Commonwealth ave., Back Bay, feature raid of drive to clean up state's $90,000,000 gaming racket.

RAIDS MAY CLEAR 'JASPER' MYSTERY

As state detectives reveal details of their crackdown on the huge numbers ring, they may rip the mantle of mystery from the person of Dr. Henry J. Sagansky, 46-year-old dentist and the "Doc Jasper" in the case.

His neighbors on Gardner rd., Brookline, knew him as a quiet, stocky, dark-complexioned man who kept very much to himself. Sport fans recall how he used to sit expressionless at boxing matches, apparently his favorite diversion.

But those "in the know" in the numbers pool spoke in awe of "Doc Jasper," alleged master of the East's greatest policy business, as well as owner of numerous legitimate establishments.

It has been more than 25 years since Dr. H. Sagansky "Doc" was graduated from Tufts and opened a dentist's office in Scollay sq., where as a boy he sold newspapers and saved his pennies and nickels to get a college education.

How he made his phenomenal climb in the intervening years remains a mystery. The only public notations on his career to be brought to light thus far are entries on his police record since he was arrested for loitering in 1916 and paid a $5 fine. Traffic violations, gaming charges, one arrest for assault and battery make up the none-too-serious record.

But in those years he came to be the operator of Agawam race track and is now reported to be an operator of the Mayfair and at least two other nightclubs. Other legitimate concerns in which he is said to have invested his profits from the numbers include a finance company, accessory stores and real estate firms.

Another familiar figure among those arrested is Edward Hotze, brother and one-time aide to the former rackets "big shot," Joseph "Hoodie" Hotze of Brookline.

GIRLS' AGES KEY EVIDENCE IN FLYNN TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13—A hint that the defense may dispute the state's contention that the two girls who charge Movie Actor Errol Flynn attacked them were under 18 years of age at the time, was given today as counsel continued questioning of jurors.

Nine women and three men remained in the jury box after state and defense attorneys questioned 19 prospective veniremen. Of the women, all but one are married or widowed, and all jurors except one woman have been tentatively accepted by both sides. Two alternates remain to be chosen.

In querying jurors, Defense Atty. Jerry Giesler emphasized that the state must prove the two complaining witnesses—Betty Hansen, Lincoln, Neb., schoolgirl, and Peggy La Rue Satterlee, Hollywood entertainer—were under 18 years of age.

"You will give consideration to all the evidence on both sides as to age?" he asked one prospective juror, then added: "It's a basic question in a charge of this sort."

Criminal assault under California law involves solely proof of a sexual act with a girl under 18, Consent is not involved.

MINE STRIKERS DEBATE TRUCE

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Jan. 13 (AP)—Thousands of striking miners in the Pennsylvania anthracite fields were called into mass meetings today to consider a possible truce after the War Labor Board hinted it may ask President Roosevelt to seize all strike-bound collieries and end "this threat" to the prosecution of the war.

Strike leaders received the labor board statement—its second in two days—at a meeting last night and immediately acted to convene their local unions, affiliates of the United Mine Workers, today to "get the reaction."

The UMW, in telegrams to John L. Lewis, UMW president, and heads of five companies, declared that "anthracite coal stockpiles are at a critically low level endangering the health of our people and the prosecution of the war."

TECH EXPERTS WILL GIVE GROVE REPORT

Two Massachusetts Institute of Technology professors, retained as experts by Fire Commr. William Arthur Reilly to investigate cause of the death-dealing Coconut Grove fire, were prepared to report their findings today at the scheduled reopening of the city's inquest into the disaster.

Meanwhile, hearings continued in Suffolk Superior Court before Judge Frank J. Donahue on motions of counsel for six of the ten defendants to quash indictments against them. As the court hearing resumed, Judge Donahue gave no indication when he would announce his decision.

Prof. Hoyt Hottel, one of the two M. I. T. experts engaged by the fire commissioner, was to make a detailed report on tests he made of the night club's furnishings at the long delayed resumption of the fire department inquest.

CLASH WITH BUSHNELL

Fiercely verbal clashes between defense attorneys and Atty. Gen. Robert T. Bushnell marked the court hearing on the indictment dismissal motions.

"Hair-splitting technicalities and a lot of meaningless words have no place here," the attorney general declared in announcing he would fight attempts to quash the indictments "if we have to stay in the courts all summer."

He asserted that "the voiceless public" was not interested in legal technicalities and charged that lawyers seem to feel that "if they file enough motions and take long enough, they can talk anything out of court."

Atty. Heibert F. Callahan, representing Barnett Welansky, had argued in his motion that no specific act had been charged against his client in the indictment which charged manslaughter.

"The indictment in its form sets out no crime known to law and no act," Atty. Callahan argued.

CITES WORDING

"The indictment does not allege that the death of anyone was the result of an act of commission or omission on the part of the defendant Welansky."

As counsel for Jacob Goldfine, who is charged with manslaughter in the indictments, former Asst. Atty. Gen. Abraham C. Weber asserted that Goldfine, recorded as steward and manager of the Grove, was only one of the employees, and had no interest in the establishment. He declared the indictment was not specific as to the crime charged.

Atty. Daniel Gallagher, counsel for James Welansky, said he would adopt in behalf of his client the argument set forth by Atty. Callahan.

Skid Hurls Roxbury Fireman From Engine

Thrown from the rear of a fire engine today when it skidded at Walnut ave. and Crawford st., Roxbury, Engineman James Driscoll, 52 of Valentine st., Roxbury, suffered a brain concussion and fractured collarbone. He was taken to City Hospital.

The apparatus was en route to a fire in a four-story dwelling in Warren st., Roxbury. Damage was estimated at $600.

Follow Baby's Diet, Plea to Kidnaper

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)

Police appealed by radio in Spanish and English today to the person who took 5-month-old Edelia Torres from her carriage to follow a physician's prescription in the child's diet.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pablo Torres was taken from in front of her home last Saturday. Police Lieut. Charles Malley said he believed the seizing of Edelia was the act of a frustrated mother.

Grove License Banned Forever

The Coconut Grove liquor license has passed out of existence permanently.

Officials of the Boston Licensing Commission disclosed today that Grove managers applied for a renewal of the license shortly before the fatal fire Nov. 28, and the application was rejected after the disaster. The time allowed for appeal since has expired.

LYNN MOTHER DIES IN FIRE

Mrs. Laura Stevens, 51, mother of two soldiers, was burned to death in bed today at her home in Union st., Lynn.

The fire, confined to the bedroom of the woman's first floor apartment, was discovered by Alfred B. Anthony, a neighbor, who smelled smoke. The family's dog was found suffocated in a living room.

Deputy Fire Chief James H. O'Neill said the woman had apparently been smoking in bed, and had fallen asleep.

Anthony told police during the night he inspected the premises because he smelled smoke. He didn't disturb Mrs. Stevens, who was alone in her first floor apartment, he said.

Later, when the odor of smoke still was evident, he, with a next-door neighbor, Henry H. Moore, made a second inspection.

The men flashed a light through the window of Mrs. Stevens' bedroom, and saw her lying half on the bed and half on the floor, and summoned firemen.

Mrs. Stevens' husband, Clifford H. Stevens works nights for the Boston & Maine Railroad.

One of her sons, Clifford H., Jr., is stationed at Ft. Meyers, Fla., and the other, William C., is at Camp Polk, La.

$270,500 BEQUESTS IN WILL OF A. LAWRENCE LOWELL

Cash bequests totalling $270,500 and annuities of $7750 were revealed today in the will of the late Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president-emeritus of Harvard University. Deaths, however, have cancelled $40,000 of the bequests and $650 of the annuities.

With its filing in Suffolk Probate court, Atty. Caleb Loring pointed out that Dr. Lowell had "given away during his lifetime, anonymously, to educational institutions and public charities, which is the reason that no provision was made in his will for public bequests."

Miss Nora A. Dwyer, for many years Dr. Lowell's secretary, was given an outright bequest of $10,000 and a $3000 annuity for life. Other employees, Mary Brown, Hannah Hurley, Margaret Moran, Elizabeth Flynn and Nora Buckley, were given $500 annuities each.

BEQUESTS TO EMPLOYEES

Anna P. Dillon of Rockland st., Roxbury, and Peter Campbell of Cotuit also received $500 annuities. Campbell's wife, Mary, will receive it since Campbell has since died.

Annuities to Rose Flood of Granger st., Roxbury, for $200; to Flora Jones of Cotuit for $300, and Mary Sanford of Worcester for $150 were cancelled because they have died.

Belle Jackson of Mashpee and Addie L. Goodspeed of Cotuit were given annuities of $300 each.

Louois Campbell, Sturgis Behlman and Warren P. Campbell, all employees, were given $1000 each in cash bequests.

Land called Canaumet in the towns of Mashpee and Sandwich, about 130 acres, was left to the trustees of public reservations, with $10,000 for its care.

Lawrence Lowell Reeve, Anna Lowell Putnam and Laura, daughter of Augustus L. Putnam I, were given $10,000 each in addition to a share in the residue.

7 GET $20,000 EACH

Mary Taylor, Algernon Coolidge, Francis L. Coolidge, Sidney Coolidge, Ellen W. Coolidge, Mary L. Barton, Alice Ropes, Henrietta Lowell and Isabel Lowell were given $20,000 each but the bequests of Francis and Sidney Coolidge are cancelled because they have died. Algernon Coolidge also has died but provision was made in the will for the bequest to go to his wife who is still living.

A $25,000 bequest went to Henry A. Yeomans and Atty. Loring, whom he named executor, was given $10,000 in addition to a large quantity of personal property, pictures, furniture and boats.

Numerous nephews and nieces were provided for in the "rest and residue" of the estate to be divided equally among those living at the time of his death. In this respect he included a clause to consider any child born within nine months after his death as living at the time of his death.

ARLINGTON BRIDE IS WIDOW AS 'LEFTY' SHEA DIES IN ACTION

A year ago this month 24-year-old Corp Howard Shea was given a brief leave from Ft. Devens. He came to Arlington Heights, married Grace Mazzerello, to whom he had been engaged for three years, and then had exactly 24 hours for his honeymoon.

His bride never saw him again and today she is a widow. One of those fateful telegrams from the War Department arrived with the sad news:

"Corp. Howard Shea died in action, in defense of his country, somewhere in the Pacific area."

An only child, son of a widowed mother, Mrs. Irene Shea of Medford, Corp. Shea was well known in Medford and Somerville under his nickname of "Lefty" for his left-handed pitching with baseball teams of these two communities.

In his last letter Corp. Shea mentioned "waiting Howard Shea for a Christmas package" from his bride. She sent it, but he died before it could reach him on this, his first Christmas away from home. It read:

My dearest wife: ... Don't worry about me, sweetheart, I am all right and in good health and I am thinking of you always night and day. Try to enjoy yourself, forget about all this, and when we're together again this will be all forgotten and we can make up for all that we have lost. I received the picture and think you look swell, sweetheart, I noticed you have the hand with the wedding ring on it stuck right out and it makes me feel good to see it and know I have somebody waiting for me back home ...

... You look swell in that gown, dear, and I'll bet you would have looked beautiful in a wedding gown if we had had time to have a nice church wedding, but I left so quickly (for Caledonia) it spoiled everything. All that matters to me, dear, is that we're married and some day we'll make up for all this.

I have received all the packages you sent me so far and I'll be waiting patiently for the Christmas package to arrive.

... Please don't worry, darling, and I know that everything will turn out all right ...

Your loving husband,
LEFTY.

P. S. I love you.

Howard Shea

ICKES' SMALL BUSINESS PLEA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Secretary of Interior Ickes said today with "the major portion of war production contracts going to a few large corporations" the country now faces "the brutal fact that the war can be the final, crushing blow to small business."

"Should the small businessman go, we will all go," he told the Senate Small Business Committee which today sought specifically to enlist government co-operation for small main operators.

"No man's ad is too small to be spurned," Ickes said. "The fundamental fact and problem that we face is that both mineral resources and business talents lie idle. They must be brought together."

Malden Rites Tomorrow For Private Walter Foley

A military memorial mass will be held at 9 a. m. tomorrow at St. Joseph's Church, Malden, for Pvt. 1st Class Walter E. M. ("Tim") Foley, 36, former artist on the Record-American who was killed in action at Guadalcanal, where he had served with gallantry in an infantry unit.

Foley, who was unmarried, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Foley, of 18 Stanton st., Malden. His two brothers are Sgt. Frank Edward Foley, now serving in Walter's company in Guadalcanal. "Tim" Foley and Private Gerald W. Foley, who is on a 10-day furlough from the Army Air Corps at Miami, Fla., to attend the funeral.

A delegation from L and K Company Ass'n, including veterans and relatives of veterans, will attend the service.

Clare Luce's 'Hat' Stirs Protests

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—What a woman wears on her head—that common topic for tiffs—has blown up a storm of protests from a new congresswoman's constituents.

Rep. Clare Boothe Luce, of the Fourth Connecticut District, told a dinner meeting of the National Women's Press Club that a picture taken last week, showing her on Capitol steps with a scarf tied over her head, had resulted in a batch of letters.

"I represent Danbury—the Hat City," Mrs. Luce explained. Some of the letters, she added, accused her of trying to set a Communist fashion and pointed out that "going around wearing a bandana around your head like a Russian Kulak (peasant) is going to promote the rise of Communism."

HUNT DRUG STORE BANDIT, INJURED BY MACHINE

An armed bandit who held up William Hahn at pistol point in a Union st., Newton, drug store, and escaped in a black sedan with $50, was the object of a police search today.

8 'PUBLIC OFFICIALS' LINKED TO SMASHED GAMING RING

raids, made while Mayor Tobin was in Washington in connection with the fuel oil situation, Gov. Saltonstall was declared to have told reporters he had no knowledge of the raids.

GOVERNOR KNEW OF DRIVE
At a press conference shortly before noon, however, he admitted he had known of the investigation being made since August by Atty.-Gen. Bushnell, Acting Public Safety Commr. John F. Stokes and federal agents.

The governor was asked by a reporter:

"In view of the Cocoonut Grove disaster and the uncovering of the $90,000,000 gambling racket, do you intend to take any action?"

The governor replied:
"I can only say that the case is in the hands of the attorney-general and until evidence is brought out on the subject I have nothing to say as to the police commissioner of Boston."

STOKES, TIMILY CLASH
Before that there had been a discrepancy between the statement of Commr. Timilty regarding the raids and that of Commr. Stokes, who was in charge of the raids.

When Timilty was contacted and asked about the raids, he said he had known about them in advance and even had been asked to include Boston police among the raiders.

But Commr. Stokes denied any request for aid was made of Boston and said what Timilty claimed was news to him—Stokes.

Only last Monday, Timilty's 68 rookie patrolmen were given credit at Boston police headquarters for having eliminated betting parlors in Boston—for making 50 arrests and closing nine gambling places in an investigation of gaming and number pool houses.

OPA STEPS INTO CASE
Today, however, certain state officials asserted the rookies gathered in only "small fry," such as could have been picked up at any time during the five months that state and federal undercover men were investigating.

Following last night's raids, Bushnell said all was nearly in readiness last November or early

JOSEPH STEPNER
Taken in Gaming Ring Raids

In December, but the Cocoonut Grove holocaust, with its attendant investigations, threw the gambling syndicate out of its accustomed routine.

Had the Grove tragedy not occurred, the raids would have been pulled before Commr. Timilty's rookie policemen were let loose against number pool operators.

According to one informant, out of the rookies' activities the biggest horse room operators in Boston, men of high standing in the racket, learned that the state also was hot—and learned it within 48 hours ago—but they did not know the details.

Today the OPA stepped into the case as a result of investigators' reports the syndicate members and employees—while law-abiding citizens were straining to buy war bonds, struggling along on a coupons and paying war taxes—were able to buy new tires and even new automobiles, at the same time seemingly obtaining all the gas they desired.

HAD GAS CANS IN CAR

According to the undercover men, many of the syndicate cars carried A stickers, but auxiliary cans of gasoline were in the rear of the machines, some of which made regular trips as far away as Connecticut on the organization's business.

The OPA will check records to learn where the gamblers obtained their cars and tires—whether they were sanctioned by rationing boards or bought in a black market.

The view of many usually well-informed persons on Beacon Hill today was that Atty.-Gen. Bushnell was on his own in making his long investigation of the gambling syndicate, with federal men, and then launching the raids.

GOVERNOR-MAYOR BREACH

At the same time some of these observers pointed out the State's invasion of Boston, for the first raids in history over the heads of local authority, probably would widen the breach between Gov. Saltonstall and Mayor Tobin as well.

After the mayor had put forward a bid for home rule in Boston as regards the police department and the licensing commission, with a special public safety commission to be formed for the city, the governor gave the recommendation no recognition.

In the governor's inauguration speech of last week he said:

"The entire state is still shaken by the most tragic disaster in Boston's history—the Cocoonut Grove fire. That must never happen again in Massachusetts.

TOBIN PLEA IGNORED

"I recommend the immediate study, review and revision, where necessary, of our laws pertaining to safety at places where the public gather. Divided authority must be eliminated. Responsibility must be definite and fixed. Enforcement must have no loopholes.

"So far as Boston is concerned, the licensing board is the logical body to assume this responsibility. Sufficient authority, funds and qualified personnel must be assigned to this board to perform its duty."

There was nothing in the inauguration address regarding the return of home rule to Boston, as advocated by Mayor Tobin.

Among the 23 persons arrested in the raids, in addition to "Doc" Jasper, were Joe and Dominic Palladino, the former of Fourth st., Medford, and the latter of Salem st., North End.

They are brothers of the prominent horseman, Rocky Palladino, whose race horse, "Little Beans," has been heavily backed by Boston bettors at various tracks. The horse was called after the nickname of Joe Palladino, "Joe Beans."

All 23 of those arrested were booked at state police headquarters on a charge of conspiracy to set up and promote a lottery. Officials said they would be arraigned today in municipal court and that other charges might be added in some of the cases.

Scores of other arrests and surrenders of lesser fry in the smashed organization are expected because of revelation that motion pictures of the ring's activities have been taken by the undercover men since last June.

The attorney-general's investigators said they took movies of gas being poured from the auxiliary cans into tanks of the shiny new cars—which are supposed to be sold only to persons engaged in necessary work.

Sagansky, or "Doc Jasper," was arrested with Miss Lena Goldblatt, blonde hostess at the Mayfair, and Peter Kelly of Greenville st., Somerville, in her apartment at 12 Commonwealth ave., Back Bay.

A short time later, in a search of the retired dentist's home in Gardner rd., Brookline, the raiders seized 1000 shares of Narragansett Racing Association stock and 49,000 shares of Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific stock.

MOVED TO STATION

From the various places raided, two big van loads of equipment—horse-betting, number pool, adding machines, typewriters and records—were taken to state police headquarters at 1010 Commonwealth ave., Allston, where the 23 prisoners also were booked.

And as the dawn came up, "Doc Jasper" and five other of the captives still refused, for some mysterious reason, to be bailed, though bail was available.

Holding out with him, and moved to cells at Joy st. police station, were Kelly, Nathan Auberg of West Newton st., South End; Isaac Spiegel of Everett ave., Chelsea; George Bailey of Massachusetts ave., Back Bay, and Irving Rosen of Talbot ave., Dorchester.

CATHERINE CREMINS
State Witness Guarded

Four others of the arrested were not bailed out until after midnight, and then were bailed at Joy st. station.

They were Max Rudkin of Glenville ave., Allston; Guy Sirrito of Columbia rd., Dorchester; John Cavagnaro of North Bennet st., Boston, and David Snyder of Chamber st., West End.

The other 13 were all bailed earlier at state police headquarters.

The state officials said that the gambling syndicate has long operated in Boston as "a vicious world with a government of its own, virtually unshaken by the war which so seriously affects legitimate business and citizen."

SECRET WARRANTS

But search warrants, gained secretly from a judge on Monday night, it was stated, opened up safety deposit boxes, bank accounts and other places of refuge for assets and incriminating facts—and the little world has tumbled, according to the officials.

In addition to the raid on the syndicate's alleged headquarters at Roughan Hall, and in addition to those on blonde Lee Goldblatt's apartment and the Sagansky home the following places were raided:

Chambers st., West End. (Two floors of a tenement building). Arrested here were Dominic Palladino of Salem st., North End; Isaac Spiegel, John Cavagnaro, David Snyder, Max Rudkin, Guy Sirrito and Joseph Palladino of Fourth st., Medford.

West Canton st. (second floor over a store). Arrested, Maurice Helman of Bradford st., South End; Louis Hodess of Ashford rd., Newton, and Louis Popkin of Seaver st., Roxbury.

MOVING CONCERN?

West Canton st. (supposed headquarters of a furniture moving concern). David Belinsky of Tremont st., South End, arrested.

Washington st., South End (fifth floor of an apartment building). Arrested, George Bailey,

FELONY COMPLAINTS SOUGHT AGAINST RAID DEFENDANTS

State prosecutors appeared in Municipal Court before Judge Joseph T. Zottoli today seeking complaints charging several defendants in the big "numbers" raid with conducting a fictitious lottery, an old and seldom-used count which carries a maximum penalty of three years in prison.

The surprise move was founded, police said, on an effort to make the defendant "crack" and reveal the names of their "big bosses." Police believed the group would "talk" rather than go to jail alone.

Ordinarily, lottery cases are prosecuted as misdemeanors and result in small fines. Fictitious lottery is a felony.

Before court opened, Asst. Atty. Gen. Frank G. Volpe was closeted with a tall, attractive, blonde girl described by officials as "a very important government witness."

She was identified as Catherine Cremmins, 25, of Roxbury. She was smoking nervously as she entered the conference room and appeared to be sobbing.

In addition to the fictitious lottery charge, the defendants will be charged with conspiracy to promote a lottery; having gaming implements in their possession; and being present where gaming implements were found.

The fictitious lottery count is based on a section of Chapter 271, General Laws, which provides that any lottery not authorized by the secretary of state is fictitious.

The law places the burden of proof up to the defendants to show that authorization was given by the Secretary of State.

Outside the courtroom, the defendants huddled with collars turned up and hats pulled over their faces to prevent photographers taking their pictures.

One, particularly belligerent man snarled at a news photographer:

"You dirty —, you're just like the cops. I'll smash your damned camera."

Working with Volpe at today's court proceedings were Asst. Atty.-Gen. James Farley and William Hayes.

RAID FOLLOWED TIMILTY CLAIM GAMBLERS ROUTED

The sensational raid which smashed the $90,000,000 racket today was in sharp contrast to the confident picture portrayed by recent information given out by police officials.

One item, following confidence of 50 bookies, expressed confidence "horse race and numbers pool writers throughout the city were given a death blow by the drive of Commr. Timilty."

The information cited "three weeks of a secret drive by Police Commr. Timilty" against bookies by a rookie squad of 68 policemen working in civilian clothes and circulating among the small-time "hand-book" operators.

The stories admitted, however, that "none of the places raided could compare with the old wide-open palatial horse race betting rooms" and that the raids in most cases resulted in "seizure of a couple of tables and chairs."

Of the large squad that worked on the "big drive," 53 returned to police school instructions, the police disclosed. Several, officials stated, would continue to concentrate on gambling rackets during the afternoons.

The most ironic touch to the department's information was contained in the flat statement:

"The drive by Commissioner Timilty drove most of the operators out of business."

The statement was made less than 24 hours before state police swooped into the city and broke up the lottery ring.

U. S. LOTTERY AGAIN URGED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP).—The lottery plan bobbed up again today as a possible part-answer to President Roosevelt's suggestion to Congress that it put the bite on the taxpayers for another $16,000,000,000.

By a process of elimination, advocates of a national lottery believe, their proposal may come close to being accepted this year.

"There are few other revenue sources left untapped," commented Rep. Knutson (R.) of Minnesota, a high-ranking member of the ways and means committee, which writes all tax bills.

Knutson estimates his lottery proposal would net a billion dollars a year profit for the government, which would handle the drawings and all the appurtenances thereto. Drawings would be made monthly, with a top prize of $50,000 and a lot of smaller awards.

DAREDEVIL YANK PILOT RAIDS NAZIS' AFRICA HEADQUARTERS

By NOLAND NORGAARD

AT A U. S. FORWARD FIGHTER BASE IN TUNISIA, Jan. 10 (Delayed) (AP)—It was about breakfast time at German headquarters in Kairouan this morning when a lone United States Curtiss P-40 fighter darted out of the sky, headed straight for the building housing the German staff.

The P-40 loosed its single bomb and nosed upward just in time to clear the roof while pieces of masonry flew from the building and the Nazis ran for cover.

This is just a minor chapter in the almost private war that Maj. Philip G. Cochran, 32, of Erie, Pa., and his fighter squadron are waging on the Axis in southern Tunisia.

As in the case of a lot of other audacious sorties, Cochran himself conceived the idea of attacking the enemy's headquarters and hardly a half-dozen men on this field knew what he was up to when he took off.

This youthful daredevil, with a mane of prematurely graying hair—he hasn't been near a barber in many weeks—came wobbling home with his right aileron out of commission, the right tire shot half off and a bullet lodged in the propeller blade, but that, he insisted, was the result of "just fool carelessness."

This afternoon he was off on another mission with part of his squadron after mechanics worked their heads off to get his battered P-40 in shape.

ONCE WAS SINGER

Cochran is a former Ohio State University student who worked his way through school as a singer and then, he says, "I became a flyer because I was such a lousy crooner."

On his way home from the headquarters bombing, when he was 40 miles from Kairouan, he felt something hit his right wing.

"I thought it was a funny place for flak and looked back. There he was—a Focke-Wulf 190 right on me," Cochran said.

"I started in to crash land, but suddenly found I could still fly. So I swung her up under the German and gave him a burst.

"Funny thing. He thought he must be up against something really tough, because he streaked for home."

Within an hour after arriving at this base a month ago, Cochran's squadron had refueled and taken off on its first combat mission.

"They do not wait for orders. We would never get the job done if we just sat down and awaited orders," Cochran explained.

None is more appreciative of this relentless audacity than the gallant but poorly-equipped French army which might have been crushed but for the fact that P-40 pilots believe in hitting first.

When the Germans were getting set for a big push in the Doukkou sector recently, the P-40s broke up the concentration, burned nine tanks and later destroyed 24 trucks and two more tanks. The Italians hid 100 vehicles in an olive grove but Cochran's men found them and put perhaps 80 out of order in one attack.

The squadron has lost only one pilot.

MAN OF ACTION

Cochran is a man of action. The other day he hired a camel train to do a particularly difficult transportation job. There were some official questions when the bill got to headquarters but the job was done. When the squadron arrived he hired mules and even borrowed ancient charcoal-burning trucks from astonished French commanders who were unable to imagine the Americans lacking automobiles.

Here is his estimate of the German air force:

"Their hoopla is all gone and those people are strictly business. They've got the war down to real science and they know how to conserve planes.

"It's better that the folks back home know how damned good they are."

I rode down with Cochran in his jeep from the primitive dugout, which serves both as headquarters and his living quarters, to look over hurried repairs on his P-40.

The squadron leader noticed somebody had inscribed with chalk on the plane's nose: "Jean Rae, Hancock, Mich."

"Who's Jean Rae? Your girl?" he asked the mechanic, who blushed through dust-encrusted, week-old whiskers.

Cochran just smiled and we drove off.

Britain Lowers Draft Age of Women to 19

LONDON, Jan. 13 (AP)—King George signed a proclamation today lowering from 20 to 19 the age at which women are liable to be drafted for national service.

Single women born between July 1, 1922, and Dec. 31, 1923, will have the privilege of choosing between work in war industry and the uniformed services, or they may volunteer for nursing before being called up.

The proclamation also extended the operation of the service act to men who have reached 18 and are not yet 46.

DeGAULLE TO MEET GIRAUD

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 13 (AP)—Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, new high commissioner of French North and West Africa, and Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the Fighting French, will meet soon, a spokesman for Gen. Giraud said last night as the assassination of Giraud's predecessor, Adm. Jean Darlan, took on new undertones of mystery.

Gen. Giraud's spokesman, disclosing that additional "personages of Algiers" had been arrested in the case and others arrested earlier had been released, said the investigation of Darlan's assassination Christmas Eve was being prosecuted "without consideration of the prominence of the persons involved, nor their political beliefs."

Gen. Giraud Gen. De Gaulle

The investigation, he said, was being made by military authorities. Asked if the Count of Paris, heading a French monarchist group, had figured in the investigation, the spokesman said he could not discuss the trend of the inquiry.

The new "personages" arrested, it was pointed out, are in addition to the 12 seized New Year's Eve as instigators of a plot to kill Robert Murphy, President Roosevelt's personal minister in North Africa, Gen. Giraud and others.

The spokesman said the assassination of Admiral Darlan appeared to have been the "result of a conspiracy reaching in many directions."

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN NEW GUINEA, Jan. 13 (INS)—American and Australian ground troops are pressing in slowly on the few hundred Japanese troops holding out on the Sanandana peninsula of southeast New Guinea, a communique from the headquarters of Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today.

As this mopping-up of the fragments of the original Japanese invasion army of 15,000 men neared its close, Allied bombers smashed at enemy bases in the Lae-Salamaua area of New Guinea and long-range fighters carried out a low-level attack on Fuuloro, Japanese-held port on Portuguese Timor.

Nine Japanese bombers retaliated with a raid on Merauke, on the south shore of Eastern New Guinea, but caused little damage, the communique stated.

BRITAIN HAS 7 CARRIERS

LONDON, Jan. 13 (AP)—A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, declared in a speech today that "although we have had heavy losses in aircraft carriers, we have more now than we had at the beginning of the war after replacing our losses."

"We have had in the last three or four months very heavy attacks by U-boats," Alexander said, "and we have taken a very heavy toll of the enemy."

Britain has announced loss of five aircraft carriers, Ark Royal, Courageous, Glorious, Hermes and Eagle.

Since the start of the war she has completed Indomitable, Formidable, Victorious and Illustrious—and, from Alexander's statement, apparently has added the new Indefatigable and Implacable to the fleet. Jane's Fighting Ships listed them as scheduled for completion in 1942.

This would indicate a total of seven, the only prewar carrier remaining unsunk being the Furious.

Carrier Fetes 65,000th Hop

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Jan. 12 (Delayed) (AP)—The scout bomber pulled up to a stop on its carrier today, presumably ending just another routine mission, but as the pilot, Lieut. (JG) George A. Kiewit of San Diego, stepped to the deck, he was greeted with loud, long cheers.

Ordered below to clean up and report back to the deck, Kiewit was unaware he had made history. He soon was enlightened, however, for on his return topside he found the carrier's entire complement lined up to present him with a huge cake.

The gift commemorated the 65,000th landing made aboard the ship.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 13 (AP)—Twenty-year-old Virginia Morgan, first cousin of Gloria Vanderbilt Di Cicco, niece of Lady Furness and Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hays Morgan, has eloped to Victorville and married Robert Durham.

The marriage, according to a telegram, took place in Victorville, where the bridegroom, aged 26, is a bombardier in the Air Corps. He was divorced a year ago from a New York socialite, and is himself connected with the well-known tobacco family of the same name.

Confirmation of the marriage was given to me by the bride's father, who said:

"We know very little about Mr. Durham. Young girls today seem to take things in their own hands. Naturally, we would like to have announced Virginia's engagement and have her married with a church ceremony. Possibly Mr. Durham is a very nice young man. I know nothing against him. But Virginia's mother and I are extremely unhappy that our only daughter took this high handed method."

Miss Morgan came here with her parents after the famous twins, Gloria and Thelma Vanderbilt, moved to Beverly Hills. She was much in the company of her cousin, Gloria.

Army Private With 'No Dependents' Is Dad of 11

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—This is the Army, Pvt. Christian: $140 a month for the wife and 11 kids for the duration, an appendectomy at Atlantic City and the local draft board wondering how it all happened.

Queens Draft Board 244 officials said when Anthony Arthur Christian, 38, filled out his questionnaire he indicated he was single, with no dependents, and wanted to be put in 1-A.

So he was inducted into the Army No. 7, and after three days at Camp Upton, N. Y., was transferred to the Army Air Forces at Atlantic City. Then Mrs. Christian appeared at the draft board and said she had not been receiving dependent allotment checks.

"No dependents," said a draft board official.

"No dependents?" exclaimed Mrs. Christian. "How about our 11 children?" And she produced birth certificates and a wedding certificate.

Col. Arthur V. McDermott, director of New York city selective service, yesterday cleared the board of any blame in the matter, said the government would have to pay Pvt. Christian $50 a month and his family $140 "in spite of the fact Pvt. Christian obviously had deceived his local draft board."

But Pvt. Christian, home on furlough after an operation for appendicitis, had a statement of his own.

"I listed my wife and all my children when I filled out my occupational questionnaire, which I did long before filling out my draft board questionnaire," he said.

He said he was told to leave the matter of dependents blank in his draft questionnaire since he had been on relief and "I guess somebody else filled in 'single with no dependents.'"

"I told the whole truth to some fellow at the draft board. I not only told him about the wife and 11 kids, but I also told him that I have stomach ulcers, sinus trouble and am slightly deaf in my right ear. But I guess that didn't matter, because I passed my physical examination all right."

NEW POST-WAR BUYING PLAN BACKED BY VERMONT MAN

By HAROLD WARD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—A serious-minded young real estate dealer from Burlington, Vt., is spending a lot of his time and money in Washington these days trying to interest Treasury officials and others in his "Victory Savings Plan" for installment buying with war bonds, the purchased articles to be delivered after the war.

The idea has been toyed with by several economists but it met a cool reception in the Treasury until Leo J. Schildhaus of Burlington talked with Undersecretary Daniel W. Bell.

A major Treasury objection seems to be that the plan would create a serious drain on the nation's finances if a great number of war bonds were redeemed just as hostilities ended.

PLUMLEY AIDS

Schildhaus thinks he has an answer to that, and he has the support of Rep. Plumley (R.) of Vermont, who points out that it is an idea which "comes from an ordinary citizen, like ourselves" and should be given consideration.

"In brief, the plan would be designed to sell now, for post-war delivery, all the durable goods of which we must deprive ourselves in order to furnish materials and supplies to our armed forces, our allies and their forces," Schildhaus says.

"Under this plan, dealers and builders all over the country would be licensed to sell new houses, automobiles, radios, ranges, refrigerators, washing machines and other merchandise and to accept payments in the form of war bonds.

"Local lending institutions in the various communities would also be licensed and would agree to finance many of the items up to 80 per cent of the total amount of the purchase.

BUY WITH WAR BONDS

"The bonds used in this plan would be regular U. S. Treasury war bonds and would be purchased in the name of the victory savings plan.

"On maturity of the bonds the dealer would receive the full face value of the bonds or could cash them at any time after delivering the merchandise if he needed the capital.

"Under certain conditions, the purchaser could be given the option to terminate his contract to purchase certain merchandise, in which case the VSP would then pay the face value of the bonds to the purchasers upon maturity instead of to the dealer, thus keeping the bonds in effect for their original full 10-year term."

SALES LEVY SEEN GAINING SUPPORT AS FIGHT RESUMES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Another scrap over a national retail sales tax—this time with possibly more legislators on the "pro" side—was assured today when Rep. Robertson (D.) of Virginia announced he would re-offer this method of raising revenue to help sweeten the new $16,000,000,000 tax kitty proposed by President Roosevelt.

A member of the tax-framing House Ways and Means Committee which will start consideration of pay-as-you-go and other tax legislation within the next 10 days or two weeks, Robertson said he believed the income tax had reached the saturation point.

"If we are to raise another $16,000,000,000," he told reporters, "I don't see how we can do it without a sales tax. Income taxes have reached the limit of ability to pay for a great number of people. I don't see how we can go any further on this."

ADD NEW MEMBERS
Robertson was unsuccessful in an effort last year to get the ways and means group to consider a sales tax. The vote then was 13 to 8. Since then the committee has undergone some change, with six new Democratic members being added only the other day to fill vacancies.

As last year, Robertson said he would propose only that the sales tax principle be considered, with the committee fixing the rates, once it has agreed to the principle. Advocates have estimated roughly that a 5 per cent levy, with government and state purchases exempt, would raise $2-$500,000,000.

Both Houses of Congress were in recess today but a Senate subcommittee called James C. Petrillo, head of the American Federation of Musicians, for further questioning on his ban against making recorded music for commercial use. Petrillo told the committee yesterday that he would withdraw the ban only "at the request of President Roosevelt," unless the broadcasting and recording interests offered "a proposition that will assure more work for live musicians."

ICKES CALLED

In another committee room, Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes was slated to be questioned about a shortage of steel, copper, aluminum and other metals. Sen. Murray (D.) of Montana, declaring it was well known that the war production program "has permitted an over-expansion of factories that cannot be fully utilized because of lack of sufficient metals and minerals," said he wanted to ask Ickes what obstacles were "blocking the development of our metals and minerals deposits."

Meanwhile the Senate is expected to decide Friday whether to hold hearings on the nomination of Edward J. Flynn, retiring chairman of the Democratic National Committee, to be minister to Australia.

Flynn, at a press conference late yesterday, labeled opposition to his nomination as "purely politics."

NEW CONGRESS REALLY BUZZIN'

Snappy House Repartee Replaces Yawns

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—In case anybody should ride up in a hack and ask you, the top tune of the week on the Capitol Hill parade is "The Lament of the late Lackadaisical Legislator; or, Who Raised the Roof on the New House Floor?"

Things have changed in the House. There's so much buzzin', cousin, that even the reporters have quit yawning.

During the last days of the 77th session the place was dead. No adding machine was needed to total the attendance. The outnumbered Republicans were subdued the Democrats strong and silent.

Today, with the 78th session barely a week old, it becomes clear something new has been added besides the blonde in the next to the back row.

Observers say every new Congress comes in with a slight shot in the arm, but this seems to be something special. They attribute it to:

1—The Republican resurgence which nearly evened bi-partisan strength.

2—The still unsophisticated interest of the new members.

3—Old-timers "putting on a show for the benefit of the freshmen."

4—The tempo of the times.

When Rep. Sumner (R.) of Illinois, one of the ladies of the House, interrupted Rep. Gifford (R.) of Massachusetts the other day to steal the show with a deft bit of dialogue, the gentleman from Massachusetts bowed.

"Lovely," he explained, referring to her remark, of course, "that is as well said as if I had said it myself."

State Employees Pledge Aid to United War Fund

State employees, through their chairman, Education Commr. Walter F. Downey, today pledged their wholehearted support to the Greater Boston United War Fund in the campaign to raise $7,800,000.

Downey's pledge of co-operation was made after a group of 300 state officials and workers heard Gov. Saltonstall explain the Fund's importance to the war effort.

Robert Crawford, of Needham, 19-year-old Marine, who recently returned home from the South Pacific war area to recuperate from wounds and illness, was a guest at the meeting held at the City Club. In a message to the group, delivered by Commr. Downey, Corp. Crawford, who was injured by shrapnel and suffered attacks of malaria and pneumonia, told of a unit of stranded Marines who lived for three weeks on a diet of rice, served once daily as their only meal.

"What we give to the Fund is little in comparison with what our boys are going through," Downey said.

An additional list of individual donors of more than $500 to the Fund was announced by the men's special gifts division after its first report meeting. The following subscriptions were acknowledged:

Judge Sweeney warned Kaplan the slightest violation of OPA regulations in the future would mean he would have to serve the jail sentences.

The raids were staged simultaneously at 4:45 p. m., the so-called "payoff hour" in the organization's daily routine. Except for the breaking of some padlocks by police and the capture of several men who attempted to escape by jumping through windows of the Chambers st. house, there was no violence.

This biggest roundup of its kind in Massachusetts grew out of an investigation launched last August by Bushnell's office, when a federal survey revealed that since 1935 approximately $90,000,000 was taken in Massachusetts alone by number pool and horse betting promoters, and that the government had been defrauded of close to $1,500,000 in income taxes.

The attorney general set about organizing a corps of investigators and set up a clerical force as well, to correlate and codify all evidence.

In quiet cooperation, with not a whisper leaking out, Acting Public Safety Commr. Stokes loaned a number of picked officers from his department, while federal agents joined in.

All through the summer, fall and winter, the sleuths watched the syndicate salesmen, pickup men and other employees ply their trade, gained entrance to horse rooms and watched the "business offices" of the ring, and followed the movement of "Doc Jasper" at the Mayfair and other night clubs.

The investigators even hired vacant stores and houses from where they took movies of the gang's activities. They kept the gambling establishments under constant surveillance to check on who entered and left each day.

Named By The People

Father John's Medicine was originally compounded for Rev. Father John O'Brien of Lowell, Mass., in 1855. He afterwards recommended it to his parishioners and friends.

In this way it became popularly known as Father John's Medicine and many thousands have since been benefited by this valuable preparation. Many impressive endorsements have been received from clergymen, doctors, nurses, hospitals and institutions covering the period of over 85 years.

No amount of advertising alone could have built its reputation during 85 years unless it proved its merit. Father John's Medicine helps build resistance to colds when the body needs more vitamin A. It is also rich in vitamin D. Father John's Medicine gives quick relief from coughs due to colds by soothing the throat, and is pure, wholesome and nutritive.

CHARLOTTE MAUD RANTOUL, daughter of Mrs. Augustus Rantoul of Boston, will soon sail for overseas to be a mobile canteen driver for the Red Cross.

This exclusive information was revealed to me by Charlotte herself, who says, "It's all very exciting and bewildering, for I have no idea where or when I am going. They don't tell us anything, you know, because great secrecy surrounds our plans."

All she really knows is that she is due to leave Boston within the next few weeks to take a short indoctrination course at a Red Cross center and after the preliminary training she will sail for foreign service, presumably at one of our fronts.

This popular post deb is a leading comedy actress of Vincent Club shows. She has just given up a splendid job in Washington to accept her overseas assignment.

In the capital she was office manager of Col. William (Wild Bill) Donovan's department of Strategic Services in the War Department. Last May she applied to the Red Cross for foreign service and took the job in Washington to fill in until she was accepted by the R. C.

Charlotte is now home in Boston visiting her mother and friends and putting her affairs in order before setting out for "parts unknown." She came out about five years ago and has always been ready and willing to lend a hand to whatever charitable committee needed her most. She's been very active in community fund drives. In addition to her ability as a comedienne she is an accomplished horsewoman and an expert waltzer.

In pre-war days when the waltzing parties at the Somerset were highlights of every social season she was always in the group of ardent waltzers swirling and gliding till the curfew sounded.

For Joyful Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

Real Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This splendid recipe is used by millions every year, because it makes such a dependable, effective medicine for coughs due to cold. It's so easy to make—a child could do it.

From any drugstore get 3 1/2 ounces of Pinex, a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its soothing effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two heaped of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved.

It's no trouble at all. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Put the Pinex in a pint bottle and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of very effective and quick-acting cough medicine, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be amazed by the way it takes hold of coughs, giving you delightful relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membrane, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

Children In War

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Copyright, 1943, King Features Synd., Inc. World Rights Reserved

WHAT should this war do to our children? We've seen what it has done to the Nazi youth—to the young Japs. What should we want it to do to ours?

Should we teach them to be loving and gentle, fierce and iron-willed at the same time? Teach them to hate or forgive? Or is it possible to teach them anything? Will they come out of their blood bath unmitigated young savages?

These are the most terrifying questions the world has ever asked, not only for this next generation's sake but because they will determine the future of the world. And, for that reason, if no others, they should give you pause.

Now comes Anna W. M. Wolfe, who tackles the whole subject with the greatest simplicity and sympathy I have found on this whole child subject, in her book, "OUR CHILDREN FACE WAR" (Houghton Mifflin Co., publishers).

Mrs. Wolfe is an outstanding figure in the Child Study Ass'n, lecturing, teaching and writing; and she has an even more personal reason for understanding war-time America through her contacts with her own youngsters. Which, compared with flying a bomber or navigating a sub, seems to me as complicated a job as any mere human can tackle today.

For here are young Jim and Dorothy or Phyllis and Steve who are aged 10 and 11. Cherubs today, chock full of light—just two pin feathers short of heaven. And by school time tomorrow they are the devil's own brew.

MRS. WOLFE will lead you a long way before you find the answer to that mystery. But you'll be far wiser when you, at last, arrive. For she does not lay the blame on the beastly business of war but rather on the complications and repressions of home life and its endless succession of hidden feuds, jealousies and resentments.

Hate and fear—they are the real battlefields and it didn't require Hitler, Hirohito or Mussolini to invent them. Most children are eager to co-operate if beloved and praised. But they dislike, as heartily, the parents who nag, humiliate or arouse their sensitive feeling of inferiority. And this hate may be protracted into a feud which warps the whole pattern of life.

What is the war going to do to your sensitive boy—your small, egotistical girl. Chances are, it's going to do to them exactly what you yourself have already done... bring to harvest the very seeds of hate, cruelty or exhibitionism which you have implanted.

NOTHING very strange about that, is there? Can't you trace your own adult difficulties to some cruel word, some neglect or ridicule which your parents have already forgotten? How many years have you been embattled against a secret Axis of which the world never dreamed?

'Mr.' May Be Omitted Here

Copyright, 1943, King Features Synd., Inc.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My fiancé (he is an ensign and I am planning to be married soon, and we have been discussing the form of his name on our formal wedding invitations. We agree that underneath his name on the invitations will be "Ensign, United States Navy." But we disagree about whether or not to have "Mr." before his name. I think that "Mr." should be engraved before his name. He maintains it shouldn't. Which is correct? KAY.

Although it is still correct to use "Mr." before the name of a bridegroom of lower than senior rank when his rating is engraved on the line beneath his name, most bridegrooms agree with yours and prefer to have the "Mr." omitted before the name, like this:
Thomas Lee Brown
Ensign, United States Navy

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am going to marry a doctor, and I would like to order our joint cards when I order our announcements. What is the correct form for our names? MARION.

The joint name should read: Doctor and Mrs. John Forbes Bryant. (It is best form to spell out the title.) And if you wish to add the street address, which will probably be a convenient thing for you to do, have this engraved in the lower right hand corner, and use no abbreviations... 300 Park street.

Thirst goes "on leave" and refreshment comes on the job, when you connect with a Coke. There's life, sparkle and energy in its refreshing goodness.

THOSE in the Navy's W.A.V.E.S. do a double service. In serving on their own, they also release a trained man for war duty. In its own way, you've found that ice-cold Coca-Cola does a double service, too. It quenches thirst, yes. But it does more. It brings an after-sense of complete refreshment.

A drink has to be good to be the best-liked soft drink on earth. Coca-Cola started out being good and keeps on being good. Choicest ingredients and the finished art of 57 years of "know-how" set Coca-Cola apart in quality. A very special blend of flavors gives it a taste all its own. The only thing like Coca-Cola is Coca-Cola, itself.

* * *

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke. Coca-Cola and Coke mean the same thing... the real thing... "coming from a single source, and well known to the community".

In order that those in the Service of Uncle Sam can continue to enjoy Coca-Cola, every effort is made by bottlers to supply them with Coca-Cola sufficient for their needs.

The best

New Kind of Lipstick Gives Beautiful Results

By ARLINE GOULD

IT'S MORE THAN a conversation piece, though actually it is a very good one . . . a "tip stick" which is a new kind of lipstick. And not only is it extraordinarily successful because it is a new method of applying lip rouge, and one which gives beautiful results . . . but also because its price is unexpectedly low! 25 cents . . . no less, no more!

First place, it is entirely different from a lipstick in appearance . . . a black plastic oblong of a case, which won't roll off your dressing table.

As you pull it apart, one side yields a patented tip applicator, shaped like a flame or a brush, which has been automatically coated with the finest of creamy lip rouge as it came out.

You'll be delighted with the way the applicator "shapes" the rouge as you wield it, and the way it massages the vibrant color well into the lips, for a smooth, long-lasting job.

If you like a satiny, richly moist-looking lip rouge that doesn't smear, you'll find this is the one. And aside from this lovely and lasting quality, its short-cut to glamorous lip-lines is welcome news. The "tip" always retains its point, doesn't bend, and requires no professional skill in handling. It eliminates uneven lines, brush smear.

They say it's very economical, too . . . which is something you consider twice in these days when your food budget has somersaulted to new highs, and you've put your mink money into bonds, leaving you with a carefully small sum for the essential item, beauty.

There are five exquisite red tones from which to choose, from light, high red to an intense dark tone. And they're all 25c, complete "tip stick" with cream rouge in the smart case.

For shopping information, phone Arline Gould, LI-Berty 4000, except the week-end, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL—Try as you might, with regular lipstick you can't get quite the lovely sweep of lip-lines that a new "tip stick" applicator gives you . . . illustrated here. Arline Gould describes it today.

Avoid Surprise Visit to Boy in Camp

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Copyright, 1943, King Features Synd., Inc.

Although he hasn't said so, you suspect that your son has been homesick in camp. You have made up your mind that it would cheer him if you made up a nice, appetizing package of pies, doughnuts and layer-cake and started out to pay him a surprise visit.

It is important that you change your mind as soon as possible about the surprise character of your visit. Just think back a little. Are "surprises" ever successful? Do "surprise parties" ever turn out happily unless the victim is thoroughly informed and prepared in advance? There is only one answer.

In the Army, it seems, such visits are even less desired than in civil life. Remember that the greater part of a soldier's life is devoted to routine. He plans in advance for his time off. A mother, however loving, however beloved, shouldn't attempt to interfere either with her boy's work or his play.

But wives, relatives and sweethearts of the men in service (mothers being by no means the only ones given to this indiscretion) have lately been making so many unannounced visits to camps that Randall J. LeBoeuf, Jr., president of National Travelers Aid Ass'n, has publicly explained that surprise visits "lead to nothing but bitter and expensive disappointments."

Consult the USO travelers aid service before you plan your visit, Mr. LeBoeuf advises. In his useful "ten commandments" he urges that every possible detail of the visit be arranged in advance by the serviceman and his visitor. Be sure you have enough money in your purse, don't talk to outsiders about your plans, and don't fail to leave the baby at home.

It goes without saying that a visitor must know not only the name but the rank, unit, exact address and, if possible, the military number of the soldier who is to be visited. If these rules are followed, the visit should result in happiness for everybody concerned.

HERE ARE SPORTS SUITS WITH DOUBLE UTILITY!

By BETTINA BEDWELL

PRACTICAL-MINDED designers who devote their talent to the Junior Miss are thinking in terms of skating suits and other active sports clothes that can be used for a lot of other things.

A sample of this kind of thinking is the suit that is shown. It is for spot use as a skating suit and, at the same time, for parties and other occasions.

It is made of dark blue velveteen, and the waist-length jacket is quilted and lined with bright spring cotton, so it is very warm. An edging of red wool braid and silver buttons trim the jacket. The skirt is flared, but not the wide circular type that used to be a "must" for skating. It is just as graceful and more practical, besides being strictly legal.

The white cotton shirt shown with the suit is a sports type, and a more dressy blouse may be had, to wear with the same suit for parties.

DRY BEANS

High in Food Energy

By MARTHA LEE

LOOKING FOR A MAIN DISH that will help stretch the family's meat share? Why not consider the dry bean? Here are some of the reasons: Dry beans are a compact source of food energy—the kind of food that stays by you and satisfies that hungry feeling. They contain body-building protein. This protein, though not the same high quality as that of meat and other foods of animal origin, still is of great value in these days of wartime protein shortage. Beans rate high as a source of blood-building iron and two of the important B vitamins, riboflavin and thiamine. And they lend themselves to a variety of hearty dishes.

While many foods are limited or rationed, dry beans are such a notable exception they have been designated a "Victory Food Special" from Jan. 18 to 23. During that time, we are urged to give them special attention.

Now that canned baked beans have become a casualty of war, your family will doubly welcome home-baked beans.

BOSTON BAKED BEANS

- 1 qt. pea beans
- 2 lb. salt pork
- 1 tbs. salt
- 1 tsp. mustard
- 2/3 cup molasses
- 1 cup boiling water

Wash and pick over beans. Soak in 2 quarts cold water 12 hours. Drain, cover with fresh water, bring to boiling point and simmer over low heat until skins burst when tested. To test, take up a few beans with spoon and blow. When skins break, the beans are tender enough. Drain beans and place in bean pot. Scrape rind of salt pork and cut several gashes in the meat. Press into beans. Mix salt, mustard, molasses and boiling water, and pour over beans. Add more boiling water, if necessary, to cover beans entirely. Cover and bake in very slow oven (250 deg. F.) 6 to 8 hours. Add more water when necessary. Uncover and bake 30 minutes longer, until a brown crust has formed. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

WARTIME SEASONINGS

Ham, bacon, sausage and frankfurters are favorite table companions for beans. Now that war has limited the supply of these meats, try some other taste contrasts.

Try a hot tomato sauce served over plain cooked beans or over a bean loaf made along the same pattern as a meat loaf.

Or, brown some chopped onion in a little well-flavored fat. Add cooked tomatoes. Season. Add cooked beans. Simmer. Sprinkle with parsley if you like, and serve.

Combine cooked beans with cooked corn for a midwinter succotash.

FOR SALADS AND SANDWICHES

Cook a lot of beans while you are cooking—then use left-over cooked beans in salads or lunch sandwiches. Some of the crisp or tasty foods that can help make a successful salad or sandwich are chopped celery, chopped onion, chopped pickled beets, chopped raw cabbage, lettuce or other salad greens, pickles, tart salad dressing, chopped carrots.

"It's the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser we boys are reading—and you don't know how much we appreciate getting these newspapers, even if they are late news."

Thus wrote William J. Doherty, former employee of the Boston Evening American-Record-Sunday Advertiser, to his sister, Miss Mary Doherty, of Boston.

"We look pretty clean for not having washed for twenty-five days," writes young Doherty, from "Palm Grove," in Guadalcanal, Solomon Islands, "and while most of us have shaved, that is all, as we were very itchy from the beards."

Doherty points out his "hair lip I am sporting in the picture." And writes "I am wearing it so as to cover up my toothless upper lip—smart, huh?"

The letter was mailed two days before Christmas, and he writes that "while Christmas presents have stopped coming, they say we will get more on Christmas Day. And it has been two months since we have received mail."

The Home Fronts and Global Strategy

This is the third of a series of six articles written by Former President Herbert Hoover appraising the situation on the belligerent, occupied and home fronts as they appear today, as they loom in the future, and as they affect global strategy:

By HERBERT HOOVER

JAPAN is an entirely different problem from the European Axis. Her home front at this time is the reverse of the European home fronts, for her civil population is very well supplied with necessities and generally in high spirits.

Japan also differs from our European enemies on the military front. The European Axis is depending mainly upon land war for victory. Japan's ultimate destiny depends mainly upon sea warfare. Germany's conquests are over land, and Japan's are basically conquests over sea.

Japan with Manchuria is normally about self-supporting as to food. Her conquests have given her far more rubber, oil, tin, lead, zinc, copper and hardening metals, rice, and vegetable oils than she needs. She has a possible shortage in iron. Her people are far better off in standard of living than before Pearl Harbor.

Her great weakness is that all her conquests are like beads on a string. And the string is her merchant marine and its air and naval protection. Through that alone can she, for the present, maintain her garrisons and her many supplies to support the home front. If that merchant ship lifeline should be cut by adequately based airplanes, all the southern arms of the octopus would be paralyzed.

The Japanese airplane, ship and tank output is not one-fourth what we can produce. Her ships, planes and men are under steady attrition from the British and ourselves. With every growth of our air and sea power and our advancing bases, this destruction becomes more severe. Merchant shipping is the Achilles' heel of her "co-prosperity order" in Asia. And if her sea transport be steadily crippled, she will start degeneration in munitions and raw materials on the home front.

THE AXIS armies have overrun 12 independent democratic countries and part of Russia. Over 200,000,000 people have been ravished, their men murdered, their women and children starved. Many of these countries have always lived partly upon food and feed for their animals imported from overseas. As the result of the blockade, they have had to slaughter their animals down to those that could be fed. Each winter the food is less and less. Theirs is not food shortage. They are starving.

The "normal" ration of meats and fats combined in these countries ranges from two to four pounds per month. Compare this with the American consumption rate of about 20 pounds per month. I have a survey of a number of Belgian industrial areas which show that 35 per cent of the children are suffering from scurvy, rickets and tuberculosis. Most of the city schools are closed because the children are too weak to do their work. The mortality is appalling.

During the last 18 months I have repeatedly insisted that the blockade be opened to allow an experiment in supplies for their soup kitchens which feed the women, children and unemployed men. I proposed that the experiment should be conducted by the neutral governments of Europe after agreements with the Germans that both the imports and the native food should be unmolested and that the whole should be supervised by agents of these neutral nations.

SIX MONTHS ago, under the pressures of the Turkish, Swedish and Swiss governments, this plan was adopted for Greece. Greek lives are being saved, although the amounts are insufficient. Our State Department now reports that the Germans do not benefit and our government encourages support to the Greek committee. The arguments against my proposals have now proved to be wrong by the Greek experience.

Is there now any reason why the Swedes and Swiss should not be allowed also to save the children in Belgium, Holland, Norway and Poland? They are willing to undertake it; they have ships that cannot be placed in Allied war service. They can get food in South America. Most of the invaded countries have financial resources in the hands of their exiled governments to pay for this food.

Food for the small democracies has a bearing on the whole future of freedom. These people are the only centers in Europe of fidelity to democracy. It is not a pleasant prospect if they are to bring up a generation of children stunted in body and embittered in mind. Nor are promises of food after the war of much avail to people in the cemeteries.

Hitherto this has been considered a problem for British decision. But it is now also an American responsibility. And I dislike to contemplate the verdict of history upon our default in that prime foundation of Christianity—compassion.

—PROVERBS 31.

ABOVE is what the Bible states is one of the attributes of a good wife. However, from what some wives state this department gathers that not all husbands are in the habit of praising and appreciating their mate's diligence in keeping the household running smoothly. When a man fails to praise his wife's housekeeping skill, it proves he is a man who does not understand women. . . . There is an excess of discussions and articles as to the problems of the post-war period. About 99 per cent of these dissertations are of the starchy-eyed variety and could be done without. Still there are some phases of life for which in times of war we should prepare for peace. For example, take the problem of all these married career girls who are saying of their war time activity: "I like it much better than housekeeping." Is it going to be easy to get these ladies back to acting as a chauffeur of a vacuum cleaner after the war? Are they going to be happy when struggling with the dinner dishes? I think not. I believe this is a post-war problem that should have immediate attention of all husbands. Our Homes & Women Department Research Bureau has been instructed to open a special "Back to the Kitchen" file for an intensive study of the matter.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS:
Q—We have a sergeant who is one of those guys who thinks he knows practically everything. Have you a military question to stump this fellow with? A—Ask him why the soldiers of the United States carry their rifles on the right shoulder, while the soldiers of the British empire carry their rifles on the left shoulder. . . . Q—As to these bachelors

PRIVATE BREGER ABROAD

"Hold on, I'll see if the Colonel's in."

who speak depreciatingly of girls who honor them by proposals of marriage, isn't it true that many brilliant women proposed to the man they loved were accepted and lived happily ever afterwards? A—Am no authority on this subject, but I know that Queen Victoria proposed to Prince Albert and that was a very happy marriage. The record of his celebrated proposal is in a letter from Prince Albert to his mother in which he said in part: "The Queen sent for me and in a genuine burst of affection declared that I had gained her whole heart and it would make her intensely happy if I would make the sacrifice of sharing her life with her."

SIDELIGHTS: The Waldorf-Astoria, New York, is now the largest privately owned hotel in the country. The U. S. government purchased the Hotel Stevens, Chicago, which was previously the largest hostelry. The Stevens has 2975 rooms. . . . One of the best tests of a good cook is the preparation of a good breakfast. First, there's the coffee. This is a supreme test of culinary ability. Then take the eggs. Only one cook in 100 really knows how to fry an egg. Also consider the toast. Have you ever noticed how different the toast of different cooks is?

NOW I HAVE a letter from a young matron who states her first name is Denny. Isn't that a man's name? Anyway, I don't care if it is. I am giving up my campaign directed at females who use male first names. I think a fellow should know when he is beaten. Otherwise, he is apt to be like those fighters who end up punch drunk and go around talking to themselves. Hereafter, ladies, as far as I am concerned you can use any kind of name you like and I shall offer no complaint. But have a heart; if your name is Pat, Sidney, Willie, Jackie, Alexis or Leslie, please when you write this department put a Miss or Mrs. before it so I shall not have to start off my reply: "Dear Sir or Madame."

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: As to the possibility of a Nazi submarine's having been up the Mississippi river nearly to New Orleans, it might have happened. In World War I German submarines were discovered operating in Delaware Bay.

PASSING BY: Edmund Goulding, Hollywoodian. He began his stage career in London playing the part of the third murderer in MacBeth. He handled this part so well that he was next cast as the first grave digger in Hamlet. However, he soon abandoned his stage career and has been connected with the films for many years. He is second vice-president of the Ft. Lee Cowboys. This is an organization of actors who appeared in Western films that were made in Ft. Lee, N. J. . . . Dudley Field Malone. After many years as a government official and lawyer, Mr. Malone has become an actor. In his new career he deserves the 100 per cent support of feminine film fans. He was one of the most vigorous fighters for votes for women and resigned his position as collector of the port of New York as a public protest against the failure of President Woodrow Wilson and his administration to pass the Woman Suffrage Amendment.

SEES NEED OF BOOSTING U. S. EDUCATIONAL STANDARDS

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, TUESDAY—Yesterday at the White House was a sad day, because of the funeral of young Mrs. Charles Clauch, the wife of the junior usher at the White House.

The world seems so full of sorrow for so many people these days. I think all the people of our country must sympathize with the British ambassador and Lady Halifax, who have borne so bravely the death of one son, and now have to be so far away from their second son, who is lying critically wounded somewhere in the fighting zone. One can only hope that modern science, which has made some extraordinary advances, may help this boy and many others to regain, if not complete health, at least sufficient well-being so that life may be both useful and pleasant.

I had a press conference yesterday morning, which Mrs. Florence Kerr attended. She told us some of the things which had been done to make the closing of the WPA projects a little easier for men and women who can still work on them, though they are transferred to the direction of other agencies. It is interesting to find that so many things that WPA has started have become of use to the community, so that they can be taken over and continued because they are necessary to the community life or to the war effort.

There is one thing which I am becoming more and more concerned about. In some states, elementary and grade schools are closing. This means that children will be deprived of their basic education, which is absolutely essential, because without it no child can go on educating himself. In the early days of our history, many of our great men did much toward their own education. But they obtained the basic tools, such as the ability to read and write, and the fundamental knowledge of arithmetic, from the itinerant teacher, if it was not available in any regular schools.

I am really fearful that, if we do not do some very drastic reorganization of the salaries and preparation of our teachers, we may find ourselves with a lower basis of actual literacy when the war period is over than we have in the past.

Last night I spoke at the Labor Auditorium for the emergency food and housing corps. I took the midnight train for West Virginia with the members of the Artchdale Advisory Committee. We are having our last meeting down here, because the community is now in large part out of the hands of the government and in the hands of the people themselves.

Broadway's Voice

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—One of the most fascinating tales of Manhattan concerns a Hollywood producer who is responsible for one of the biggest box office pictures of last year. Morton, let us call him, because that's quite a long way from his real moniker. Morton's name has appeared in the newspapers quite frequently during the past few months, due to his sudden prominence in connection with his hit film, and when he comes to New York on business or pleasure the gossip scribes keep their eyes peeled for the new romance in his life.

The last time he was here—it was a couple of months ago—most people thought Morton had come to share a holiday with a beautiful lady of the screen who was bonding-touring in these parts. But most people were wrong. Morton was here to dig up a wife and 17-year-old son that no one ever knew he had, because he'd deserted them shortly after he came here from Europe, and he never bothered to mention them in studio interviews.

The wife and boy were quite surprised when he turned up, wept a little over them, and told them he had come to take them out of their poverty and install them in the luxury of a Hollywood life. They were surprised to see that he seemed genuinely anxious to have them back.

He was genuinely anxious to get himself a couple of dependents, because the cold wind of the draft board was whistling round his ears and he knew it was only a question of time before he'd have to leave his mansion for a barracks.

Of course, his wife and son never guessed that. They went with him, quite happily, and were installed in his California home—dependents in every sense of the word. Morton was terribly happy. Until two weeks later—when the draft age limit was lowered to 38.

Morton, you see, is 41!

But you can't print that. Mrs. Morton and their son are more comfortable and contented than they ever have been in their lives, and don't you think it's nice that he's making at least two people happy—even if it was a mistake?

BOSTON after DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

IF SHE EVER GETS AROUND to writing her memoirs, Sheila Barrett will have an interesting chapter as the result of her fortnight's engagement—just terminated—at the Copley Plaza Hotel... For the first time in a scintillant career, Miss Barrett was "cancelled"... After having been given an extension of her contract a week ago, the stunning news was conveyed to Sheila via her New York agent that the Boston hostility no longer required her services... The reason given was that Miss Barrett was not changing her sketches often enough to provide sufficient variety... Insiders know that the situation at the Copley Plaza has closely rivaled the recent Gloria Swanson-Francis Lederer imbroglio in a downtown theater... Members of the Fourth Estate who knew Miss Barrett well recall pleasantly her plea of 18 months ago... Then, before it was fashionable and profitable (in a publicity manner) to entertain the men of the armed forces, Sheila was devoting every possible moment to the boys in uniform... But she pleaded with her friends of the press to give it no attention in type.

THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT was so appreciative that it cited Sheila for extraordinary efforts toward the entertainment of the men up north... And less than a week ago, the skit in which Miss Barrett portrays a girl entertainer on a bond-selling job was so compelling that an Arlington society man with Mayflower forebears, wrote out a check for $10,000, payable to the Copley Plaza Hotel, for exchange into war bonds... Perhaps an act which got such results did not need much more variety... A consummate show-woman, with ten years of headlining in the best spots in America, Miss Barrett's notions of entertainment obviously did not coincide with that of the hotel management... As the management was paying the bill, Sheila had no answer.

SHEILA WAS UNHAPPY from the very beginning of her engagement here, this time... But she'll be back in Boston, and a little matter like a cancellation will lose La Barrett none of her firm Boston friends, who are legion... It will be unfortunate, though, if Sheila lets the incident "get" her... To a sensitive performer of her type, a first "cancellation" looms more importantly than it really should... This column predicts she will be back in Boston with an assortment of "stuff" that will pack whatever nightclub or hotel she plays... Her present repertory, perhaps.

ONCE OVER-LIGHTLY: The glamorous girls who act as hostesses of the airliners have a Hollywood potential in the dazzling brunette, Lillian Blackburn... She's on the Boston-New York run temporarily... "This Rock," which will bring both Billie Burke and Martha Scott back to Boston, is booked for The Colonial, unless there's a switch... The New York premiere has been set for February 8... Neither Martha Scott nor Nancy Kelly have had much luck in their comeback-to-Broadway essays... "Susan and God" won Nancy her Hollywood roles, and "Our Town" projected Martha into the orbit of the Hollywood talent scouts.

BOTH YOUNGSTERS yearned for a good Broadway play, after their quick successes in pictures... Nancy has had bad luck in two attempts, and Martha was here a few weeks ago in "The Willow and I," which closed abruptly in New York... Speaking of glamor,

BILLIE BURKE
Scheduled for Boston Booking

a carload of that intangible but powerful quality was present at one sitting at the Music Box... It was the male variety, however, and consisted of Victor Mature, Lieut. Charles Farrell, Lieut. Jim Britt, Coach Denny Myers, Jack Cosgrove... The last four were at one table... Coast Guardsman Mature was at another, and Lucy Cochrane and two sailors were his table-mates... Lieut. Farrell is as trim-looking as a streamlined destroyer in his gold bars and Navy blue... The Onset lad who starred in "Seventh Heaven" (with Janet Gaynor, remember?) loves the Navy... His bunkmate is Lieut. Joe Fay, one-time golf captain at Holy Cross.

WALLY BEERY PLANS COMEDY ABOUT RATIONING

By Louella O. Parsons

Copyright, 1943, by International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 13—I suppose there is humor in anything if you dig hard enough—at least, M-G-M has discovered enough laughs in the rationing system for a high, wide and handsome comedy, "Rationing," starring Wallace Beery and Marjorie Main. Wally plays an independent grocery store owner, and Marjorie is on his rationing board. From there or the original plot by Bob Hopkins just goes around and around.

More and more, Marjorie Main is falling heir to the type of roles Marie Dressler used to play, based on political or topical subjects. But what continues to amuse me is the way she and Wally continue to work in such harmony together. They know all the tricks of the trade, but in place of resorting to feuds or temperament they just kid each other and get along beautifully.

MARJORIE MAIN

"Arsenic and Old Lace" from Columbia in exchange for one movie with Bogart.

WELL, HERE IS NEWS that is going to delight a lot of people. Mr. ("Woo Woo") Herbert—Hugh to strangers—has signed to do a series of shorts for Columbia, as well as a picture. "Woo Woo's" first is "Blondie Buys a Horse," in which he'll have a part with Blondie and Dagwood.

While we're on the subject of "Blondie" although the studio has no official word, Penny Singleton is due back in town tomorrow. It is assumed she will report at the studio, and the team of Arthur Lake and Penny Singleton, so successful in the "Blondie" series, will continue.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Red Skelton surprised everyone at the Hollywood canteen by saying: "Now boys I would like you to meet my wife. She writes all my stuff and is my severest critic." Out came Edna and the two did a routine together. They kidded back and forth and brought down the house. As he said good-bye, Red added: "Well, fellows, my wife and I will be back next week. We're glad you liked us. That looks to me like a reconciliation and I hope Red and Edna are back together."

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Pat Dane and Tommy Dorsey have discovered each other and are a nightly twosome at the Palladium. Kay Kyser is dividing time between the war effort and Georgia Carroll; Eddie O'Shea, and Mary Anita Loos a dinner twosome, discussing the plan to change Eddie's name to Michael Patrick. He doesn't want the change, but Hunt Stromberg, who brought him from New York, does; Tyrone Power's sister, married to Lieut. Elmer Peter Hardenbergh, is expecting the stork; my favorite Marine, Corp. Gordon Maynard, says Ty is doing everything to adjust himself to life in the Marines and has won the admiration of the boys who have met him; Linda Brent and Lyle Talbot act as if they meant it; the Bing Crosby's have taken a house in Toluca Lake since priorities make it impossible to rebuild their burned mansion.

TIE LETTER BOX: Wait until Sidney Franklin reads this from Albert Castorri: "Very surprised to read in your column that Sidney Franklin gave a Christmas present to Miss Greer Garson. Where did Miss Garson meet the famous Mexican bull fighter—and is it a romance?" No, senor, it certainly is not! The Sidney Franklin we meant produces Miss Garson's pictures... "B. D." postcards: "Has anyone thought of Paulette Goddard for Clio in 'Saragosa Trunk'?" I suppose so, they seem to have thought of everybody from Garbo to Jane Withers... "Every day you rumor Gary Cooper for another big role," complains Jeanette Farrow. "I bet he doesn't make half the movies you say he will—unless he's triplets." Bet he doesn't either, but can I help it if every producer in Hollywood assures me he is after Gary?

WARD MOREHOUSE, who knew George M. Cohan quite well, has been assigned to do his biography, and is coming to Boston next month in quest of material... There are plenty of sources in Boston... George M.'s favorite brother-in-law is Capt. Matthew Nolan of the Brookline Fire Department, and guarding the new-stand of the Copley Square Hotel is a veteran trouper named George Suits... When the Yankee Doodle Dandy was a child, Mr. Suits—a mere boy—used to wheel him down the shady streets of North Brookline.

20 'George Washington Slept Here' on Met Bill Tomorrow

"George Washington Slept Here," which originated here as a stage play by Katzenjammer boys of the typewriter, returns in a Warners' film version tomorrow.

Its co-stars are Jack Benny and Anna Sheridan, and between the former's sense of timing and wisecracking and the latter's all-out completeness the forthcoming Metropolitan screen attraction should provide plenty of entertainment for the girls and boys.

The story is said to be a rather free translation of Moss Hart's own experiences when house-buying in Pennsylvania's Buck's County. In "George Washington Slept Here" a typical city-reared couple intent upon rehabilitating an old farmhouse are disillusioned no end when they discover it was not the first President but Benedict Arnold who once crossed their recently acquired threshold.

The stars' supporting cast is headed by Percy Kilbride, Hattie McDaniel, William Tracy, Lee Patrick, Harvey Stephens and Franklin Pangborn. William Keighley directed.

The co-feature, "You Can't Escape Forever," is a comedy-romance teaming George Brent and Brenda Marshall. Gene Lockhart, Roscoe Karns and Edward Ginnelli are other players.

'In Which We Serve' Opens Here Jan. 28

"In Which We Serve," the Noel Coward production acclaimed as the greatest picture to come out of this war and chosen by the New York critics as the best picture of 1942, will have its New England premiere at Loew's State and Orpheum Theater on Jan. 28.

Noel Coward, Leslie Banks and numerous other English film stars head the cast. "In Which We Serve" chronicles the lives and loves of the men who engage the enemy at sea.

'Once Upon a Honeymoon' Is Held 3d Week

"Once Upon a Honeymoon," the humorous, romantic adventure film co-starring two of the brightest stars in Hollywood, Cary Grant and Ginger Rogers, today starts its third week at the Keith Memorial Theater.

"The Great Gildersleeve" remains as the companion film. Walt Disney's latest cartoon, "Der Fuehrer's Face," the hilarious satire on the "super race" is held as an extra added attraction.

"Once Upon a Honeymoon" tells the story of an amazing honeymoon.

Grant, cast as an American newspaper correspondent, falls in love with a title-seeking American dancer, played by Miss Rogers. The dancer has just married a German baron, who is a Nazi bigwig.

Grant is aware that the Nazi is just another Nazi at heart, and follows the happy couple on their honeymoon.

Everywhere the baron is seen disaster strikes, for he is in reality an undercover agent for Hitler, and the oddly assorted threesome make their way through Poland, Austria and other countries of Europe to Paris where Ginger finally heeds Cary's advice. She leaves her sinister husband and flees with Grant. The baron gives chase and all three finally meet in German-occupied Paris.

How the Americans foil the Gestapo and adroitly eliminate the baron furnishes the exciting climax. Walter Slezak is cast as the unhappy German baron and Albert Dekker and Albert Basserman head the supporting cast.

"The Great Gildersleeve" tells how the famous radio funny-man eludes the grasp of a singing teacher spinster and remains in his happy state of bachelorhood.

News of Stage and Screen

Eddie Dowling is bringing "The Rock," Walter Livingston Faust's new comedy co-starring Bill Burke and Martha Scott, to the Plymouth for two weeks prior to its Broadway premier on Feb. 8.

To accommodate the public and take care of the big demand for tickets, the Messrs. Shubert are placing tickets on sale for "The Gold Follies" today, one week in advance of next Wednesday evening's opening at the Shubert Theater.

The Milton Berle-Ilona May-Arthur Treacher starring "Follies" will play at the Shubert for two and a half weeks only, including its run here on Savoy, Feb. 6, and then taking it for Broadway.

The Hub's rialto is extending uptown to Jordan Hall this weekend for the noted actress, Ruth Draper, has chosen this setting for her only three performances to be given in Boston. There will be but one evening performance on Friday night. The other two performances will be given on Saturday at 2:30 p. m. and on Sunday at 3:30 p. m. Those holding tickets for the originally scheduled Saturday night performance may use them on Sunday afternoon.

Headed by Sol Lesser, producer; Frank Borzage, director, and Harry Wild, cinematographer, the Hollywood company and crew of "Stage Door Canteen" has arrived in New York to film star sequences at the Fox Movietone studios.

'Springtime in The Rockies' to Twin Screens

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, JAN. 13, 1943

"Springtime in the Rockies," the 20th Century-Fox technical-colored box office darling, transfers from the Met to the Paramount and Fenway Theaters tomorrow for a week's stay.

The star-spangled cast is headed by Betty Grable, John Payne, Carmen Miranda, Harry James and his orchestra, Cesar Romero, Edward Everett Horton and Charlotte Greenwood.

This diverting tunefest combines romance, comedy, dancing and some of the swiftest tunes against the eye-arresting beauty of Canada's world-famous Lake Louise. The story concerns the efforts of John Payne to recapture the affections and talents of Miss Grable without letting her know of a theatrical contract in the offing.

He follows her to Canada, gathering en route a valet, Edward Everett Horton, and a secretary, Carmen Miranda, whose antics provide a great deal of nonsensical merriment.

Four new Gordon and Revel tunes highlight the score.

The co-feature is to be "The Man in the Trunk," a mystery yarn featuring J. Carroll Naish, Lynne Roberts and George Holmes.

'Dr. I. Q.' at Met Next Monday

Next Monday night marks the first in the series of Dr. I. Q. radio broadcasts to be conducted weekly from the stage of the Metropolitan Theater. The program, featured every Monday night over a coast-to-coast hook-up, will follow the same pattern as the broadcasts that have established the genial Dr. I. Q. as one of radio's most popular entertainers.

A squad of roving announcers placed through the theater will invite members of the audience to take part in the quiz show by answering the doctor's brain-teasers.

'This Is the Army' Sets U. S Record

Broadway is saluting Uncle Sam as America's leading show producer since the Irving Berlin musical, "This Is the Army," which boasts a cast of 300 khaki clad boys, has just set a record unmatched in the theatrical history of the country.

In less than six months this all-soldier hippodrome has earned $2,000,000 for Army Emergency Relief, it is announced by Nat N. Dorfman, chairman of the show's civilian publicity committee.

"Never before has a legitimate stage attraction grossed so much money in so short a time," states Dorfman.

The report is made on the eve of the revue's appearance Jan. 22 in Los Angeles' Philharmonic Auditorium, where it concludes the first phase of a trans-continental tour begun in Washington last October.

The show halts on the coast for about 10 weeks to be converted into a film by Warner Bros., the entire profits of which also go to Army Relief.

Whether it will be disbanded in California, resume its tour of the United States or go to England, as has been rumored, depends on the War Department.

Conceded a phenomena of the theater by astute showmen, "This Is the Army" has been a sellout ever since it opened in New York on July 4. Universally acclaimed "the best show of a generation" by metropolitan newspapers and national magazines, playgoers immediately concurred and the extravaganza has met with sensational box office success everywhere.

Receipts on Broadway alone for a run of three months totalled $651,518. Washington added $110,205 in a fortnight. Boston contributed $121,571 and Detroit $165,390.

Philadelphians, however, paid the largest sum to see the soldiers perform, $203,308 in two weeks at the massive Mastbaum Theater. Approximately 600,000 people thus far have exulted over the magic handiwork of Uncle Sam, big-time producer.

HEDY LAMARR, in "White Cargo," challenges Dorothy Lamour's exclusive saronging-around the South Seas. Miss Lamarr, headier than ever and vamping poor Richard Carlson all over the place, will decorate Loew's State and Orpheum screens, starting tomorrow in this screen scorchers.

24 One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Writer

Flash—Ed Flynn nominated for Ambassador to the South Pacific.

Flash—Where do you hang your hat in an ocean?

Flash—So what?

If confirmed, Mr. Flynn will be the first diplomat to do business in a boat.

We have heard of books in brooks and sermons in stones, but this is the first time in 10 years a Democratic National Chairman has been found at sea.

If appointed Flynn's cable address will be "Neptune" and he will get his mail by floating barrel.

When he has the South Pacific straightened out he will move on to the English Channel, which has been without an Ambassador since Gertrude Ederle quit.

JVA MARK SET FOR CANNING

Canning of vegetables, fruit and meat by Massachusetts 4-H Club members, including Junior Victory Army boys and girls are expected to set new records in 1943. The total will probably be 250,000 jars compared to 183,000 jars valued at $37,600 last year. Canning in 1942 was carried out by 26,000 members and this year will be done by 35,000, Miss Tena

Bishop, assistant 4-H Club leader at Massachusetts State College in Amherst, reports.

"Our armed forces and our Allies will need a larger percentage of commercially canned foods this year," she says, "so civilians will have to preserve more food at home."

"Boys and girls can make a great contribution to the war effort by helping to produce and preserve food for home use. This will relieve transportation, assure families of enough food for nutritional needs and save money."

Among JVA members who are active in 4-H Club projects and are expected to participate in the canning are Edith Andersen, Lexington; Edna Barnaby, North Reading; Alma Becker, Melrose Highlands and Beverly Clark and Nancy Stoddard, both of Wakefield.

Comdr. Louis J. Totino and Capt. Daniel Petting of the "Gore Victory" Corps of the JVA, Cambridge, report that 14 boys are now in that unit.

"Our corps is doing quite a bit to aid the war effort," they write. "We are always doing something. We have collected tin cans and scrap metal, old music records and old stockings. We have also distributed 'Fly for Navy' stickers."

"We will never stop. We want to help make our Army and Navy the largest in the world." Betty Laurent, Pittsfield, is organizing a JVA defense corps. Ten friends will form the nucleus.

Baering Down On the News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Distributed by International News Service
I went into the butcher's yesterday and said, "I would like a pound of the very best, fresh, Grade A, country, creamery butter."

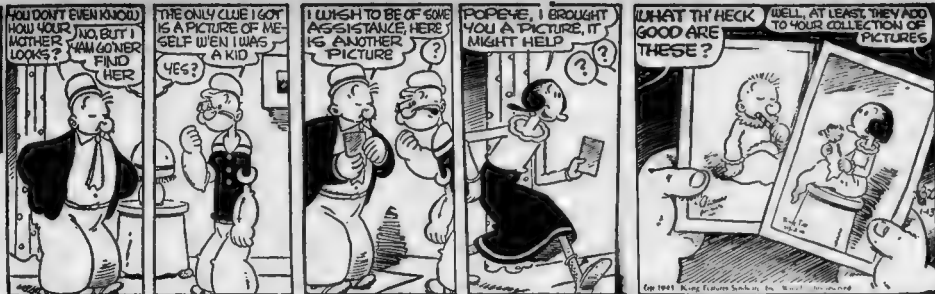

The butcher leaned out of his apron and said, "You forgot to say apple."

That's what I got. Apple butter.

Now I see they are going to take up the ration cards and install the point system used in England, Russia, Germany and Italy.

I'll explain the point system. You go into a grocery store and look over the shelves. Then you point at something you want but you DON'T get it.

Jimmy Sauer Has Ring Class

JIMMY SAUER OF Cambridge, who will represent New England in the amateur boxing show at the Arena on Monday night under the direction of the Irish-American A. A. got his desire to become a fistic champion watching other youngsters battle while he was perched in a gallery seat.

JIMMY SAUER

Sauer was a regular patron of the amateur boxing shows in this city. He became so enthusiastic about boxing that he did some training and finally entered an Irish-American A. A. tournament. He improved with each bout.

A year ago last December a substitute boxer was needed in the 135-pound class of the All-American championship. Sauer asked for the opportunity to toss leather, and he went on to score a sensational victory in the Eastern finals. Sauer was back in the All-American tournament this year and he won the 147-pound title.

It will be as a welterweight that Sauer will compete at the Arena on Monday night. He will be called upon to meet members of the crack 36th Texas Division which is stationed at Camp Edwards. The soldier boxers recently had their championship tournament and they will send a great array of boxers to this city. I saw the Army boxers in action last week. They have boxing class, aggressiveness, punching power and unlimited courage. It was the best group of Army boxers I have seen since the war started.

Johnny Pretzie to Toss His Fistic Dynamite

JOHNNY PRETZIE is back in Boston after a trip to Miami and he will compete in the heavyweight class. Pretzie was the sensation of the All-American tournament. He showed more punching power than any amateur heavyweight to step into a local ring since the palmy days of Shamus Maloney. In the All-American finals, Pretzie belted Charley Riggs out of the picture in a round. A savage left hook to the jaw ended the bout. He then went on to chill Eddie Kaminski of Chicago.

This will probably be Pretzie's final local ring appearance until after the war. The Watertown youngster is a member of the air corps reserve and he is waiting for a call for active service.

Corporal Tony Szamocki of Camp Framingham, who won the light heavyweight title at the All-American finals, and Bobby Zollo, Providence lightweight who won the All-American 135-pound championship, will also compete.

Major Sidney Lahoucade says his Army boxers are training daily at Camp Edwards. Major-General Fred Walker realizes that boxers must have time out from regular duties to be fit for hard ring tests. This is why the Camp Edwards boxers have looked so impressive. The soldier mitt wielders will come to Boston on Saturday, and they will make their headquarters at the Manger Hotel. They will work out at Harry Kelley's Gym.

Random Shots at Target

ELI CHIAT, who operates a teletype machine for this newspaper at New England race tracks, arrived in town from Miami . . . Eli was at Tropical Park at the time of the closing . . . He says that most of the horsemen could not believe that the racing curtain had been dropped in Florida for the season, and that they went to the track each morning hoping for a good turn in the news . . . Unfortunately most of the horsemen were without funds . . . They had used what money they had shipping to Florida and getting ready for the winter racing season . . . New Orleans could not take care of the 1500 thoroughbreds in Florida . . . The stalls at the Fair Grounds were filled, and there were only opportunities for handicap horses to get accommodations.

This is one of the reasons why President Charles F. Adams of Suffolk Downs believes racing should be kept going where possible . . . It will give the horsemen an opportunity to gain a livelihood and also to maintain their racing stables . . . Then when the war ends there will be a solid foundation for racing.

Commission Ignores Angott

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (INS)—With one brief burst of double talk, John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York boxing commission, has eliminated his own lightweight elimination tournament, but not the confusion prevalent in our better boxing circles.

Chairman Phelan has thrown everybody out of his tournament, except two men, who probably will throw themselves out in due course, and has severely rebuffed Sammy Angott's pretensions to the throne he once held, and any plans Promoter Mike Jacobs might have made for quickly clearing up the situation.

Because several fighters listed as contenders failed to post forfeits, they have been discarded and only Bob Montgomery and Joey Peralta remain to fight for a crack at Beau Jack, the New York commission title-holder. They probably will meet in April or May, the winner to encounter Beau Jack later in the summer—although nothing is guaranteed against change without further notice.

Chairman Phelan said in the course of eliminating his lightweight tournament that Angott is looked upon as just another fighter who still must prove his right to a chance at the crown he relinquished last November on the plea of an attack of bad hands.

HARVARD-B. C. GRID RIFT

SEEN MENDED BY WAR

By HERB FINNEGAN

Harvard and Boston College first met on the gridiron in the war year of 1918, and it may be they will renew football relations in this war year of 1943.

The Crimson, in the habit of scheduling its games years in advance, already has its '43 slate completed, to wit: Columbia, Holy Cross, William and Mary, Dartmouth, Army, Princeton, Brown and Yale. But the Crimson isn't kidding itself it can play that schedule, travel commitments being what they are. In fact, it will be quite content if it can meet neighboring teams like H. C., Brown and Yale, possibly Dartmouth.

Boston College, in the habit of scheduling games with far away opponents like Wake Forest, Clemson, Tennessee, Georgetown, etc., hasn't bothered to announce its '43 list because there isn't a chance of it being consummated.

Consequently, there will be gaps in both schedules, and since the accent next fall will be on games with teams in the immediate vicinity, there is a distinct possibility that B. C. will face Harvard on the gridiron for the first time since 1919.

"V" BOYS IN CIVIES

Both B. C. and Harvard may be under military supervision in the fall, and chances are that all students will be in uniform as were the undergrads in the Student Army Training Corps days of 1918. (College boys in today's V-5 and V-7 courses, already sworn in the Navy, fear to go near an intown movie in civies for fear of being called "slacker").

Football was of the catch-as-catch-can variety in '18. Students were shifted from college to college before moving on to officers' training, but football strength remained balanced, much as at North Carolina Pre-Flight the past fall.

3 SOX NAMED TO 'STAR' TEAM

Seven newcomers asserted their supremacy in the majors and won places on the 18th annual All-Star team picked for The Sporting News, national baseball weekly, by 260 members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America and announced today.

Two of them—Tex Hughson and John Pesky of the Boston Red Sox—had the unusual distinction of being placed after their first full season in the big leagues.

Consisting of six from the American and five from the National, with three each from the Yankees and Red Sox, two from the Cardinals and one each from the Dodgers, Cubs and Giants, the 1942 All-Star team includes:

Left Field—Ted Williams, Red Sox.

Center Field—Joe DiMaggio, Yankees.

Right Field—Eros Slaughter, Cardinals.

First Base—John Mize, Giants.

Second Base—Joe Gordon, Yankees.

Shortstop—John Pesky, Red Sox.

Third Base—Stanley Hack, Cubs.

Catcher—Mickey Owen, Dodgers.

Pitcher—Morton Cooper, Cardinals; Ernest Bonham, Yankees, and Tex Hughson, Red Sox.

PENN FIVE AFTER 5TH

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13 (INS)—Penn's basketball team will be seeking its fifth straight victory tonight when it meets the undefeated University of Maryland five in the palestra. Penn lost its opener to Aberdeen Proving Grounds.

LOSING INTEREST—Jimmy Foxx, Cubs' first baseman, may announce his retirement from baseball soon now that he's happy in his new job as oil salesman for a national concern. The job is steady and baseball's future doesn't look any too bright to "Double X." Jimmy is sprucing up at a local hotel while en route to Portland, Me., on oil business.

Salesman Foxx Talks Of Quitting Baseball

Oil salesman James Emory Foxx handed his bag to a redcap and talked baseball for a minute before entraining for Portland, Me., to dispose of some of his "black gold" product.

He looked no different from the Jimmie of three years ago who then was first basing for the Red Sox and who had just been named the league's Most Valuable Player.

"About three pounds overweight," said the well-liked Hercules who spent the last half of the 1942 season with the Chicago Cubs after hitting home runs for 15 years with the A's and Sox.

"I don't think I'd have much trouble getting into condition," he added, "but I just haven't made up my mind whether to try it or not."

Jimmie is waxing wealthy as salesman for a big New York oil concern, and the thought of getting into trim at French Lick Springs, Ind., didn't appeal to him. Nor did the idea of catching, which he was told Cubs Manager Jimmy Wilson planned to have him do this year.

"Frankly, the idea doesn't appeal to me too strongly. Might be all right for a couple of days, but I'm getting along in years, and catching at this stage of the game wouldn't come under the heading of fun.

"So why toss a good job overboard for a gamble? After all, you'll have to admit I've been around long enough to call it quits. And if I feel when my contract comes around as I do now, I probably will quit."

832 Bowlers Enter Classic

CHICAGO, JAN. 13 (AP)—The war caused cancellation of the annual American Bowling Congress this year but the nation's top keglers won't miss out on the game's biggest money event—with a $4000 cash prize to the top man in eight games.

The annual Petersen individual classic, with a record entry of 832 bowlers having an average of 185 or better, will begin on Jan. 23 and continue for nine days. While the majority of entries are from Midwest cities, all sections of the country will be represented. The previous top entry was 800 in 1940.

Each bowler will roll eight games across 16 alleys, one of the features which has made the classic the most popular event of its type in the country. Three squads, each made up of 32 men, will compete Jan. 23 and 24. Two squads are scheduled daily the next four days, three Friday, Jan. 29, and five each the two closing days, Jan. 30 and 31.

Deadline Near for Derby Entries

29

Silver Skates Derby entries close tomorrow at midnight!

All contestants intending to enter this famed ice classic at the Boston Garden,

Jan. 24, must have their blanks in the mail by tomorrow night.

Any letter postmarked Friday will not be accepted as no late entries are going to be considered this year.

Don't delay any longer—mail your blank immediately.

Entries, by the way, have been coming in with every mail and there is every indication that this eighth annual Derby will top them all.

In addition to the speed skating events, the talent for featured numbers will be "terrific." Adele Inge, the world's greatest acrobatic figure skater will make her first Boston appearance; Janie Wiess, 13-year-old Walpole girl who "wowed" the audience last year is back and now Edi Scholdan returns after a two-year absence.

Edi, who is skating instructor at the Arena during the winter and at the famous Broadmoor Palace in Colorado Springs during the summer, has no superior as a professional figure skater nor as an instructor.

MANY MORE STARS
The Vienna born ice marvel originated juggling on ice and is a master of this difficult art on skates. In addition his figure skating routines are all original and so difficult that he has no imitators.

His presence is another ten-strike for the Derby. Many others will also be named during the next week.

Latest entries just received were from:

Ellen C. Morgan, Worcester; Marilyn Reading; Larry Cushing, Wilmington; Robert O. Malley, Boston; Clara W. Lombard, Rockland; Shirley Bruynell, Worcester; Thomas J. Leahy, Salem; Augustus Delato, Wilmington; George L. McNamara, Brighton; Juliette Gobiel, Biddeford, Me.; Paul Gobiel, Biddeford, Me.; David Campbell, Medford.

Walter Greenquist, Worcester; Jack Manning, Worcester; John Crowley, Melrose; Helen Larsen, Arlington; Cynthia Larsen, Arlington; Edgar Dame, Revere; Victor Greenquist, Malden; Teddy Benishol, Arlington; Dorothy Crowley, Melrose; Minnie J. Kigula, Brighton; James Matrilano, Arlington; Barbara Malla, Worcester; Raymond Pettin, Biddeford, Me.; Lucius Leonard, Lynn; Alphonse Leonard, Lynn; and Mary Dame, Revere.

R. I. Does It Again

KINGSTON, R. I., Jan. 13—Rhode Island State and Northeastern hit what is believed to be the high-scoring mark of the season last night when the Kingston Rams crushed the Boston quintet, 106 to 64.

As Rhode Island was contributing the major share of the total of 170 points, Coach Frank Keane removed his top team a few minutes after the start of the second half. Co-Capt. Earl Shannon and Freshman Ernie Calverley were the high scorers with 24 and 18 points.

CLAPPER SIDE-LINED FOR TWO WEEKS

By BILL GRIMES

After the Bruins' great victory over the Maple Leafs last Sunday, Capt. "Dit" Clapper called the turn on last night's game with the Blackhaws.

The Rossmen had been beaten, 7 to 2, in Montreal Saturday and had just returned home in a day coaching, arriving only two hours before they were due on the ice.

"On the way home, I felt we would be up for the Leafs," declared Clapper. "You'll have to bear me out when I say that they gave the best performance of the season."

"However, it will be a different story on Tuesday," continued the veteran. "By that time, the reaction of these games will be catching up with them. And I wouldn't be surprised if you took a licking."

Clapper definitely called the turn. Even though they shut out the Hawks, 3 to 0, last night, the Rossmen were noticeably below par. None of the veterans could get loosened up. They missed many scoring opportunities and lacked the old zip. Many of them took a physical, not to mention a mental, beating.

COSTLY VICTORY

With the old timers out on their feet, the kids took over and did a very nice job. The Sprouts made all three goals, two of which went to "Bep" Guidolin and the other to Don Gallinger.

As a result of the victory, which, incidentally, was the first shutout of the season on Garden ice, the Rossmen are now two full games out in front of the Leafs.

But it was a costly victory for Clapper will be out of the lineup for a couple of weeks with a fracture of a small chest bone suffered when he and Bob Carse jammed on the boards in the first period. X-rays will be taken today by Dr. Paul Butler.

140 RUNNERS IN FIELD MEET

The N. E. A. A. U. track and field meet which will be held at the Malden High School gym this Saturday has drawn 140 runners. These entries represent 22 high schools, three prep schools and six colleges.

"While the physical training units of the Army, Navy and Marines have been emphasizing swimming, boxing and other sports we cannot neglect track," remarked Meet Director Ralph Colson.

"It was running ability alone that provided the great stimulus in the Jap advance on the Malay Peninsula last year. The Japs covered on foot anywhere from 20 to 40 miles a day through dense forests and marshes in this drive that terminated at Singapore."

The 400-yard run promises to be spectacular. Tom McKenna, bean pole speedster from St. John's Prep and formerly of Concord High, appears destined to meet the Rindge flash, Ralph King, in the finals of this event.

Gil Dodds is entered in a special one mile run. Dodds returned recently from the Sugar Bowl where he did 4:13 without any serious competition.
